

1986

News from Hope College, Volume 17.6: June, 1986

Hope College

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.hope.edu/news_from_hope_college

Part of the Archival Science Commons

Recommended Citation

Hope College, "News from Hope College, Volume 17.6: June, 1986" (1986). News from Hope College. 67.
https://digitalcommons.hope.edu/news_from_hope_college/67

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Hope College Publications at Hope College Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in News from Hope College by an authorized administrator of Hope College Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@hope.edu.

news from HOPE COLLEGE

JUNE 1986

PUBLISHED BY THE OFFICE OF COLLEGE RELATIONS, HOPE COLLEGE, HOLLAND, MICHIGAN

Inside

Alumni Day,
Commencement Day,
Glory Days

Also Inside

Sporting storybook finish pages 8-9

Young foreign tongues
page 10

An Antarctic expedition
page 11

Published for Alumni, Friends and Parents of Hope College by the Office of College Relations. Should you receive more than one copy, please pass it on to someone in your community. An overlap of Hope College constituencies make duplication sometimes unavoidable.

Editor: Thomas L. Renner '67

Associate Editor: Eva Dean '83 Folkert

Contributing Writers: Doug Holm '86, Julie Garlinghouse '82 Ridl

Layout: Holland Litho Service, Inc.

Contributing Photographers: Louis Schakel (page 19)

Photo Staff: Dean Warren '88, Ken Whitcomb '85, Beth Kochin '88

Official publication news from Hope College USPS 785-720 is published during February, April, June, August, October and December by Hope College, 137 East 12th Street, Holland, Michigan 49423-3698.

Second class postage paid at Holland, Michigan 49423 and additional offices of entry. Postmaster: Send address changes to news from Hope College, Holland, MI 49423-3698.

Hope College Office of College Relations, DeWitt Center, Holland, MI 49423-3698. Thomas L. Renner '67, Director
Esther Cleason, Office Manager
Eva Dean '83 Folkert, Associate Director
Mary Lammers Kempker '60, Associate Director
Vern J. Schipper '51, Associate Director for Alumni Affairs.

NOTICE OF NONDISCRIMINATION: Hope College is committed to the concept of equal rights, equal opportunities and equal protection under the law. Hope College admits students of any race, color, national and ethnic origin, sex, creed or handicap to all the rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at Hope College, including the administration of its educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan programs, and athletic and other school-administered programs. With regard to employment, the College complies with all legal requirements prohibiting discrimination in employment.

About the author

Doug Holm, the author of "Sentimental journey" and our feature article on South Africa on page 18, has been writing for news from Hope College and the Office of College Relations for over two years. A 1986 graduate and history major, Holm has been a steady and invaluable student writer. His very first article appeared in the June 1984 issue. "Putting away childish things, except for..." was about his youthful memories of collecting baseball cards. Later, it was published in the Detroit Free Press Sunday Magazine. Now Doug has taken up more serious matters as he reviews his feelings on opposition of South African apartheid. A Waterford, Mich. native, Doug was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa this spring, and was the recipient of the Dean's Award and Ray DeYoung History Prize.

On the cover: Hope College welcomed hundreds of returning alumni and friends for a May weekend of many festivities, including Dean Elton Bruins' historical campus tours.

CAMPUS NOTES

Dr. Roger Garvelink '58 of Birmingham, Mich. was elected to the Board of Trustees at the spring meeting and will succeed Dr. Paul J. Brouwer '31 for a four-year term. Max D. Boersma '46 and Peter Huizenga '60 were re-elected for four-year terms. Brouwer and Willard DeGroot '39 were each elected to the position of Honorary Trustee.

Board of Trustee officers for 1986-87 are: Victor W. Eimicke, chairman; Jay Weener '49, vice chairman; and Boersma, secretary.

New appointments to the Alumni Board are Tim VanHeest '76 of Los Angeles, Calif.; Jeff Cordes '80 of Dallas, Tx.; John Abe '79 of Chicago, Ill.; Bill Aardema '79 of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Sue Bruggink '73 Edema of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Dwayne Boyce '77 of New York, N.Y.; and Janilyn Brouwer '87 of Grandville, Mich.

Alumni Board officers are: Steve Norden '74 of Dublin, Ohio, president; Fran Hooper '71 of Washington, D.C., vice president; and Chris Lohman '73 Jackson of Champaign, Ill., secretary.

Anthony Muiderman has been voted the recipient of the 1986 H.O.P.E. award as the outstanding professor-educator of the year.

The award, instituted in 1965, is presented by the graduating class to the professor who they feel epitomizes the qualities of a Hope College educator.

An associate professor of business administration, Prof. Muiderman joined the faculty in 1977. He received a B.S. degree from Calvin College, a B.S. in civil engineering degree from The University of Michigan, and a M.B.A. from Grand Valley State Colleges. He specializes in business management and

Roger Garvelink '58

Bill Aardema '79

John Abe '79

Dwayne Boyce '77

Janilyn Brouwer '87

Jeff Cordes '80

Sue Bruggink '73 Edema

Tim Van Heest '76

personnel. Prof. Muiderman has also taught new courses in business policy, behavioral dimensions of management, and management for non-business majors. Active in other college activities, he is the faculty liaison for the Baker Scholars program and Philadelphia Urban Semester.

Grants totaling $900,000 will enable Hope College, in cooperation with the University of Michigan and 24 private midwestern liberal arts colleges, to establish a collaborative program in area studies and language instruction.

The Program for Inter-Institutional Collaboration in Area Studies will allow the private colleges' faculty and students to utilize the resources of the University's six area centers in a scholarly interaction. The U-M's area studies centers focus on China, Japan, Russia and Eastern Europe, South and Southeast Asia, the Near East and North Africa, and Afroamerica and Africa.

Support of the program's first five years is being provided by grants of $350,000 from the Andrew Mellon Foundation, $300,000 from the Pew Memorial Trust and $250,000 from the Ford Foundation.

The J. Howard Pew Freedom Trust of Philadelphia, Pa. has awarded Hope College a $300,000 grant in support of the acquisition of an automated library system that will be implemented as part of the new Van Wylen library.

The grant, credited to The Campaign for Hope, will help fund the public-access, on-line computer facility which will replace the conventional card catalog, allowing the library user to make on-line searches in a Quote, Unquote is an elective sampling of things being said at and about Hope.

For the past three years, Edward B. Fiske, education editor for The New York Times, has helped Hope flex its quality reputation on a national level in the pages of Fiske's Selective Guide of Colleges. The recently-released, third and expanded edition of the Guide includes 291 of the "best and most interesting four-year institutions in the nation—the ones that (high school) students in the buyer's market most want to know about."

Fiske also found it appropriate to include Hope in his new Best Buys in College Education book this year, a companion volume to the Guide. Best Buys reviews "over 200 colleges and universities that offer high quality education at a reasonable cost. Despite the general inability of colleges to keep their tuition levels in line with the rate of inflation, there are still plenty of colleges around that can be described as relative 'bargains'."

The Guide's format, however, uses a narrative review and a numerical ratings on academics, social life, and quality of life. Hope received three stars (on a scale of five) for academics and social life, and four stars for quality of life. A three-star rating is considered average for those colleges included in the Guide.

Although, Hope's ratings are the same as the other two years of inclusion, an updated narrative description profiles the community, some academic departments, off-campus programs, financial aid, religious dimension, and the campus in the new Guide.

On the community and college, the Guide says: "Situated on the edge of a small town just a drive from the shores of Lake Michigan, Hope College is religious, conservative, and no-nonsense in its approach to values and education."

On the faculty and courses: "The professors are extraordinarily accessible to students and take an active interest in the personal lives as well as academic lives," a philosophy major attests. Hope's core curriculum exposes students to the whole liberal arts spectrum and consumes about a third of a student's course time."

On off-campus programs: "As a member of the GLCA, Hope offers a score of off-campus programs including Washington Honors and New York Arts semesters. Students can study abroad in 26 countries or opt for an exchange program with Meiji Gakuin University in Tokyo."

On the religious dimension: "Religion at Hope 'is a real part of life,' a chemistry major says. There is chapel three times a week, but attendance is not required. The chaplain's office organizes several popular and visible religious activities, and students must take two classes in religion."

But it's the Guide's opening statement that sets the tone for the college's reason for inclusion: "The mounted anchor at the gateway to Hope College marks the school's founding by religious Dutch settlers in 1866 as the 'anchor of hope for people in the future.' Now that the future is here, it's clear that this small college has turned out its share of well-educated graduates . . ."

variety of ways such as key word, book title, author, or subject. The new catalog system will also be "portable," making access available on all library floors and eventually from residence halls, academic buildings, and faculty offices. An optical scan, or bar-code labels, will enable an efficient check-out and circulation system.

Hope College has received a $10,000 renewal grant from the Shell Undergraduate Grant in Chemistry, Mathematics, and Physics program for the 1986-87 school year. Hope has been the recipient of this grant every year since it was initiated six years ago.

Philip Tanis, a junior history major from Holland Mich., has been named a 1986 Time College Achievement winner.

Tanis was one of 100 students chosen from a pool of over 760 applicants receiving this Time award for excellence in academics and in an area of interest outside the classroom. He is active in campus activities having served as co-editor of the student newspaper, the anchor, and as a director of the Model United Nations held every year on the Hope campus for high school students. In the Holland community, Tanis is an elected city councilman.

The promotion of nine members of the faculty has been approved by the college's Board of Trustees:

Promoted to the rank of full professor were: Ion Agheana, romance languages; Stephen Hemenway, English; Joan Conway, music; and Allen Verhey, religion.

Promoted to the rank of associate professor were: Kodjopa Attoh, geology; Marc Baer, history; Christopher Barney, biology; Sander deHaan, German; and Anthony Perovich, philosophy.

The Addison-Wesley Publishing Company of Reading, Mass. has announced the publication of a new textbook, Modern Experimental Biochemistry authored by Dr. Rodney F. Boyer, professor of chemistry.

The textbook is designed for use in biochemistry laboratory courses taught in most colleges and universities.

A book by Sanford Schwartz, visiting associate professor of English, has been published by Princeton University Press. Entitled The Matrix of Modernism: Pound, Eliot, and Early Twentieth-Century Thought, the book analyzes the influence of leading modern philosophers on themes and techniques characteristic of modern poetry. Early reviews predict that Schwartz's work will "force scholars to rethink their approaches to the leading writers of the early 20th century."

Two new Hope College physics professors, Dr. Ned Rouze and Dr. Paul

DeYoung, are the recipients of grants from the Research Corporation of Tucson, Ariz. in support of their work. A $22,000 Cottrell College Science Grant will aid Dr. Rouze's project entitled "Experimental Investigation of Hydrogen Atoms Produced in Simple Atomic Collisions" for a two-year period. Dr. DeYoung's project entitled "Light Particle Emission in Heavy Ion Reactions" is funded by a $19,000 William and Flora Hewlett Foundation Grant, also for a two-year period. Both joined the faculty in 1985.

Darlys Topp, director of career planning and co-director of services for students with disabilities, was selected to attend the National Conference on Employment of People with Disabilities in Washington, D.C. The by-invitation-only conference is a presidential committee designed to deal with employment issues for people with handicapping conditions. In 1983, Topp was appointed by Governor James Blanchard to the Michigan Commission on Handicapper Concerns.

Hope College will host an Advanced Student Trainer Workshop, sponsored by Cramer Products, July 13-16. The workshop is for students who have training experience in the fundamentals of athletic injury prevention and care. The event will be organized by Richard Ray, the college's certified athletic trainer and instructor in physical education. Hope is one of six institutions nationally to hold this summer's advanced workshops.

Nancy Miller has accepted a three-year appointment as dean of the social sciences after a one-year term as the interim dean.

Correction: Dr. Norman Rieck is a professor of biology. A teaching emphasis professor, he helped develop courses in human anatomy and fundamentals of the human nervous system.

Letters

Hope College does not have a lot of exposure in Butler County, Ohio although I, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Garrett Boone, the Butler County coroner, are graduates of Hope. Last week, however, Hope College was distinguished locally because one of your graduates, Guy Vander-Jagt, gave the Lincoln Day dinner address for several hundred Butler Countians. It was one of the greatest speeches I have heard around these parts, and at the conclusion there wasn't a dry eye in the house. Needless to say, I was extremely proud to be able to announce that I too am a Hope grad.

Robert Quisenberry '57
Hamilton, Ohio

Grads challenged to use "tenderness toward existence"

Although a strong southerly wind bothered tassles, gowns, and stacked diplomas, it wasn't enough to spoil the warmth of the Sunday afternoon sunshine or the high spirits of the graduates, families, and friends attending the 121st Hope College Commencement Ceremony, held at Holland's Municipal Stadium on May 4.

While 532 seniors received their diplomas during the exercises, the swirling weather conditions attracted a good deal of attention from the crowd of approximately 3,500 as mortar boards were tousled and gowns ruffled.

"This is the first year we've had to tie down the diplomas," laughed President Gordon J. Van Wylen.

In addition to the bachelor's degrees presented to the seniors, honorary degrees of Doctors of Humane Letters were awarded to Donald Bosch, M.D. and Eloise Boynton Bosch '41, M.R.E., missionaries who have served mission schools and hospitals in Kuwait, Muscat, Bahrain, and Oman.

Parents from as far away as Hawaii and Italy, and a grandmother from Iran were among those in the crowd at the ceremonies.

Jack Ridl, associate professor of English, selected by the graduating class to deliver the commencement address, entitled his speech "The Unlived Life is Not Worth Examining." Ridl reassured the graduates that it's all right to feel hesitant and lost in a world they are to supposedly enter with eagerness.

Ridl began his address in the conventional, staid narrative style; "Today, equipped with knowledge, faith and wisdom you are on the threshold of the world, a world that waits for your leadership, a world filled with golden opportunities for your success . . ."

But the seniors demonstrated some staged, general unrest to those remarks, and Ridl started again, his address now directed to the seniors, telling others they could listen in, grade papers, write letters, or take notes. "Seniors — Twenty years ago, nearly to the day, I sat with my fellow students at graduation. We believed we had changed the world. About ten years ago, I gave the commencement address here at Hope to the dregs of the Now Generation. They were ready to conquer the world.

ANCHORSAWEIGH: Pomp, circumstance, mortar boards, and gowns stood out among Hope College symbols on Commencement Day, May 4.

"Today, I give this commencement address to you, the dregs of the Me Generation. You are scared to death that the world is going to conquer you."

In feeling scared and confused, he asked, "Does that mean that the Hope faculty has taught you well?"

"Likely," answering his own question, "unless we led you to think that we aren't also scared and confused. We like to call it 'seriously concerned.'"

Through the illustration of the Biblical story about the Good Samaritan, the English professor implicated to the seniors that there is no need for worldly direction, no need for a set course, no need to examine everything that happens in life.

"Maybe the Good Samaritan was headed in the right direction — no direction. I wonder. I wonder if he had any purpose; any goal, any set task, a calling? . . . However, chances are that Samaritan wasn't as sophisticatedly educated as we. He likely didn't pause to examine his motives, the nature of human nature, the implications of his behavior, the situation, his own situation, the situation at large, the consequence of anything, not even the poor fellow by the side of the road. He just walked along and then stopped."

Evoking the words of Galway Kinnell's poem "Wait," Ridl suggested the seniors remember these thoughts on their journey through an uncertain life:

"Wait, for now.

Distrust everything if you have to. But trust the hours. Haven't they carried you everywhere, up to now? . . ."

"So now you're graduating uncertain, very uncertain, even hesitant," he continued. "Good. He who hesitates is lost. And it's about time we all learned how to be lost together, and how to wander and blunder like that Good Samaritan, with what poet Galway Kinnell has heroically called 'tenderness toward existence.'"

Baccalaureate was held Sunday morning in Dimnent Memorial Chapel on Hope's campus. The Rev. Rudolph Kuyten, a Reformed Church missionary in Japan for the past 26 years, delivered the sermon "Take

Continued on page 21

EVENTS

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

Summer Sessions 1986

Phone (616) 392-5111, ext. 2020 for registration information on all summer sessions.

Summer Session, June 16-July 25, on-campus and off-campus courses in 10 fields of study.

Summer Institute in Computer Science, — June 16-July 18 and July 21-August 22, for the novice and computer expert.

August Seminars, — August 4-8, a total of five courses available for one-hour audit, one-hour undergraduate credit, two hours undergraduate credit, or one hour graduate credit.

They include: "The Worlds of Mark Twain," "Plays, Poetry, Fiction, and Historical Themes: The Conflict in Northern Ireland," "Traditions in Classical Theatre: East and West," "Writing the Personal Essay," and "The Impact of the Second World War: As Seen from the Statue of Liberty."

Fall Semester (1986)

August 30, Saturday—Residence Halls Open, 8 a.m.

August 30, Saturday—Freshmen Orientation Begins

August 30-Sept. 1, Sat.-Mon.—Freshmen Orientation

September 2, Tuesday—Late Registration 10 a.m.-Noon, DeWitt

September 2, Tuesday—Classes Begin, 8 a.m.; Formal Convocation (Evening)

October 10-12, Fri.-Sun.—Homecoming Weekend

October 15, Wednesday—Fall Recess Begins, 6 p.m.

October 20, Monday—Fall Recess Ends, 8 a.m.

October 24-26, Fri.-Sun.—Parents' Weekend

November 27, Thursday—Thanksgiving Recess Begins, 8 a.m.

December 1, Monday—Thanksgiving Recess Ends, 8 a.m.

December 12, Friday—Last Day of Classes

December 15-19, Mon.-Fri.—Semester Examinations

December 19, Friday—Residence Halls Close, 7 p.m.

Spring Semester (1987) January 11, Sunday—Residence Halls Open, Noon

January 12, Monday—Registration for New Students, 2-4 p.m.

January 13, Tuesday—Classes Begin, 8 a.m.

February 13, Friday—Winter Recess Begins, 6 p.m.

February 18, Wednesday—Winter Recess Ends, 8 a.m.

March 15, Thursday—Critical Issues Symposium (classes not in session)

March 20, Friday—Spring Recess Begins, 6 p.m.

March 29, Sunday—Residence Halls Open, Noon

March 30, Monday—Spring Recess Ends, 8 a.m.

May 1, Friday—May Day; Classes Dismissed at 12:30 p.m.

May 4-8, Mon.-Fri.—Semester Examinations

May 9, Saturday—Alumni Day

May 10, Sunday—Baccalaureate and Commencement

May 10, Sunday—Residence Halls Close, 7 p.m.

May Term (1987) May 11, Monday—Registration & Payment of Fees, 8:30-11:00 a.m. DeWitt Lobby
May 11, Monday—Classes Begin in Afternoon at 1 p.m.
May 25, Monday—Classes not in Session - Memorial Day
May 29, Friday—May Term Ends

June Term (1987)

June 1, Monday—Registration & Payment of Fees,

8:30-10:00 a.m. DeWitt Lobby

June 19, Friday—June Term Ends

Summer Session (1987)

June 22, Monday—Registration & Payment of Fees, 8:30-10:00 a.m. DeWitt Lobby

June 22, Monday—Classes Begin in Afternoon at 1 p.m.

July 3, Friday—Classes Not in Session - 4th of July Holiday

July 31, Friday—Summer Session Ends

ADMISSIONS

For details, contact the Admissions Office, Hope College, Holland, Mich., 49423, (616) 392-5111, ext. 2200.

Exploriation '86 — July 27-August 2, 1986

A "mini-college" experience for students who will be juniors and seniors in high school for the fall of 1986.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Summer Sports Program — For more information, phone (616) 392-5111, ext. 4370 (George Kraft).

Swimming Instruction, June 9-19 and June 23-July 3, one hour per day, 1st - 6th graders.

Girls' Basketball Camp, June 23-27, all day, 7th-12th graders.

Boys' Basketball School, July 14-26, two hours per day, 5th-12th graders.

GET READY TO TEE OFF at the ninth annual Hope College Golf Outing on Tuesday, July 15. All Hope alumni and friends are invited for a day in the sun at the Holland Country Club.

Diving Camp, June 16-20, three hours per day, 7th-12th graders.

Econostate, — June 15-20, for high school students interested in economics and business. Phone (616) 392-5111, ext. 3045 (Herb Martin) for details.

SPORTS

1986 Hope College Football Schedule

Saturday, Sept. 13 (Community Day) WITTENBERG, Ohio, 1:30 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 20 at DePauw, Ind., 1:30 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 27 WABASH, Ind., 1:30 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 4, at Findlay, Ohio, 1:30 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 11 (Homecoming) *ALMA, 2 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 18 *at Adrian, 2 p.m.

Saturday, Oct. 25, (Parents' Day) *KALAMAZOO, 1:30 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 1, *at Olivet, 1 p.m.

Saturday, Nov. 8, *at Albion, 1 p.m.

*MIAA game

ALUMNI & FRIENDS

Hope College Village Square, Friday, June 27, 7 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. Hand-crafted items, food and entertainment available at this annual campus-wide bazaar.

Hope College Annual Golf Outing, Tuesday, July 15, 1 p.m. Contact the Office of College Relations at (616) 392-5111, ext. 2030 for more information or to make reservations.

DEPREE GALLERY EXHIBITIONS

Color Prints by Three, through June 15; (works by: Appel, Alchensky, and Lindener from the Kresge Art Museum (MSU).
Liberty Fest Show, June 30-July 28, "Out of This World"

Gallery hours: Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Two Great Series!

1986-87 GREAT PERFORMANCE SERIES

Friday, October 10

James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band, Dimnent Chapel, 8 p.m.

Tuesday & Thursday,

November 6-7

Alvin Ailey Repertory Dance Ensemble, DeWitt Theatre, 8 p.m.

Monday, November 24

Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra with violinist Robert McDuffie presents Tchaikovsky's Violin Concerto, Dimnent Chapel, 8 p.m.

Monday, February 9

Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra and Symphonic Choir present Mendelssohn's Elijah, Dimnent Chapel, 8 p.m.

Tuesday & Wednesday

March 17-18

The Belle of Amherst, a one-woman portrayal of Emily Dickinson by Laura Whyte, DeWitt Theatre, 8 p.m.

Thursday, April 16

Pianist John Browning, Dimnent Chapel, 8 p.m.

1986-87 YOUNG ARTISTS SERIES

All Concerts in Dimnent Chapel, 8 p.m.

Friday, September 12

Pianist Paul Shaw

Tuesday, December 9

Violinist Maurice Sklar

Tuesday, January 20

Cellist Marcy Rosen

Tuesday, March 10

Clarinetist Daniel McKelway

Friday, April 10

Organist Michael Gailit

A brochure and ticket information on both series will be available in July. Phone (616) 392-5111, ext. 2030 or write: Hope College, Office of College Relations, DeWitt Center, Holland, Mich. 49423.

Campaign profile

Support comes from far and near

Hope College alumni and friends could be considered natural donors to the college's major fund-raising effort, The Campaign for Hope. Being acquainted with the college and what it means to them, that constituent group is familiar with Hope's quality and the college's need for a new library and increased endowment to maintain its educational programs.

Corporations and foundations are a different story. Most are not aware of Hope's mission or its high academic standards. They do not share the same historical and sentimental ties to the college as do Hope's alumni and friends.

Yet, as corporations and foundations become aware of the college's goals and reputation, they recognize Hope is worthy of their support. And because of this recognition, The Campaign for Hope has become the beneficiary of philanthropic decisions, decisions that lead to significant contributions to the college's capital campaign.

Of the $26 million Campaign goal, $7.5 million is designated from corporations and foundations. The two constituent groups have already contributed $5 million to the college.

"I think the success the Campaign has achieved with corporations and foundations is a recognition of Hope College's quality," said Richard Kruizenga, the Campaign's national chairperson for corporate and foundation support. "Corporate and foundation givers, I have found, are looking for quality. They have far more requests for donations than they have money. So they try to reward those who are doing a good job."

From Texas to New York, Pennsylvania to California, the Campaign has been receiving corporate and foundation support from around the country. As a result, new corporate and foundation support has been a welcome element in the Campaign. "It is exciting to see institutions, who never had any connection with Hope until the Campaign began, becoming involved in the life of the college," said John Nordstrom, director of the Campaign.

The William Randolph Hearst Foundation of New York, N.Y. designated a large grant toward an endowed scholarship fund. Hearst has a national program which provides assistance to small and medium liberal arts colleges, a program they felt Hope fit into very well.

"In our view, Hope is an outstanding institution," said Robert Freshe, executive director and vice president at the William Randolph Hearst Foundation. "Outstanding, first, for its leadership which starts with President Van Wylen and the Board of Trustees. Secondly, we found Hope has a good track record of producing quality graduates who pursue careers in academia. They are the people, especially in the arts and humanities, who nurture, enhance, and perpetuate the nation's educational system. Those qualities are important to us at Hearst."

The Atlantic Richfield Foundation of Los Angeles, Calif. is also another new donor for Hope. In December 1985, Atlantic Richfield contributed a major grant toward the Campaign and the construction of the new Gordon J. and Margaret D. Van Wylen Library.

"Each year the foundation awards a few unrestricted Liberal Arts Grants to a select group of colleges," said Fred Nelson, Atlantic Richfield program officer. "Hope was one of 11 institutions nationwide to receive a grant last year. The choice of those liberal arts schools is based on quantitative and qualitative achievements, past and present, of the colleges."

"These grants are not only of great financial help, but are also a source of considerable encouragement," President Van Wylen said. "We strive to be a college of excellence in every facet of our activities, and we are grateful that this commitment and achievement has been recognized by such outstanding foundations."

Local corporate support for the Campaign has also been very encouraging, according to Nordstrom. Over 100 corporations in the West Michigan area have contributed substantially to the Campaign.

"Our local success is an evidence of the great community-college cooperation and understanding we have here in West Michigan," said Nordstrom.

Larry Mulder, president of ODL, Inc. in Zeeland, Mich. agrees. For over 15 years, ODL (Ottawa Door Lights) has supported Hope in various ways, through contributions to the Hope Community Campaign and as the sponsor for the annual Run, Bike, Swim, now in its 9th year. Their contribution to the Campaign is just an extension of the already-committed feeling they have toward the college.

"We have a high degree of interest in and respect for Hope," said Mulder. "Over the years, our small company has benefited from the good people Hope produces. In addition, we feel Hope is extremely well-run. And as a result, we feel Hope will be a good steward of our contributions."

The Holland Sentinel, though locally managed, is nationally owned by the Stauffer Communication paper chain and has historically donated funds to the college, most recently to The Campaign for Hope. Stauffer's philanthropic philosophy believes strongly in community service, whether it be to local educational institutions or some other cause they feel helps the community be a better place to live, Clay Stauffer, the Sentinel's publisher, said.

"We just feel it's to everyone's benefit to support a college of the caliber of Hope," noted Stauffer. "It's good to have a college like Hope in a town in which you publish. It helps the town grow; it helps improve the quality of life here; and it brings intellectual stimulation to everyone who lives in this area. Hope College makes a definite impact and difference on the Holland community."

Hope can make a difference, to its students and the community, because of generous corporate and foundation support, local and nationwide, which makes an impact through The Campaign for Hope.

CAMPAIGN WATCH

Campaign Goal: $26 million
Raised to date: $24.9 million

The Campaign for Hope is a three-year, $26 million fund-raising effort to strengthen vital areas throughout the College.

Watch the giving grow!

The Campaign for Hope
RESOURCES FOR THE CHALLENGE OF TOMORROW

The once-in-a-lifetime album

On May 3 and 4, news from Hope cameras caught the once-in-a-lifetime memories of distinguished honors and handshakes; of windy day pomp and circumstance; of poses and candids; of hugs and tears; of other cameras clicking their shutters at never-ending smiles; of parental joys; of renewed ties and acquaintances; of the end of four-year chapters in many young expectant lives.

President Gordon Van Wylen and Provost Jacob Nyenhuis (far left) present honorary degrees of Doctors of Humane Letters to Elaine Boynton '41 Bosch and her husband, Donald. The couple have been longtime RCA missionaries in the Middle East.

For the next two years, Steve Norden '74 and Fran Hooper '71 will preside as the Alumni Association president and vice president.

Karen Becker '86 presents the H.O.P.E. clock to this year's outstanding professor-educator, Anthony Muiderman, associate professor of business administration.

Distinguished Alumni Award presentations highlighted Alumni Day as, from left to right, Randall Vande Water '52, Samuel '50 and Lucille Bronsting '49 Noordhoff, Kenneth Leestma '52 were honored.

Professor Jantina Holleman holds onto her hat on a blustery Commencement Day.

Two graduates celebrate the conclusion of their college career in a sea of people.

Lots of pictures were in order to capture those once-in-a-lifetime memories.

Spring ends with a storybook finish

They say storybook endings never happen in real life. If that's true, then the finale of Hope College's spring sports season was just a dream.

For a moment, it may have seemed unbelievable, but nothing could be more real than Hope's seventh straight and unprecedented Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) All-Sports Award, plus two spring championships — men's track and baseball. None came without some nail-biting and dramatics, though, as all three crowns were determined on the last Hope MIAA weekend; one in the last event, at the wire.

The tabulation for the all-sports trophy had been close between Hope and arch-rival Calvin College before a Hope-Calvin baseball doubleheader and MIAA Field Day competition. Each school was dueling for better positions in men's and women's track and baseball, the leader of each undoubtedly taking home the all-sports award.

On Saturday, April 24, the Flying Dutchmen baseball team traveled to Calvin for their final MIAA doubleheader. A sweep there was of the utmost importance. Calvin had not yet lost a league game while Hope had three MIAA setbacks on their record. And the Dutchmen had just come off a disappointing loss to Albion the Wednesday before. But as storybook endings go, Hope topped Calvin twice, 16-4 and 7-3, putting themselves in the driver's seat while Calvin had to finish their season without another loss to assure a solo championship. But on the last MIAA weekend, the Knights and Alma Scots, then with three losses each, split a doubleheader to give Hope their second consecutive baseball championship with a 9-3 MIAA record under first-year coach Bob Johnston.

On Field Days, May 1-2, at Albion College, the dramatics increased with track-and-field tension. While coach Russ DeVette's women's team had accomplished their goal, capturing second at the meet and in the league behind favored Alma College, the men's team stood deadlocked with Calvin at 151-all after 17 events, entering the day's final race — the mile relay. The winner of the relay would win Field Day and gain the seasonal championship since Albion, Calvin, and Hope had tied in dual meet standings with 4-1 records. Plus, the champs would finalize the all-sports trophy for their school.

Hope's chances for capturing the relay race didn't look too good on paper, though. The team of Scott Voet, Kevin Cole, Richard Bourne, and Rob Appell had been bested during the regular season by Albion and Calvin.

As the odd-makers expected, Calvin led the relay through three exchanges and entering the last lap, Hope was five yards behind the leader.

But that's when Hope's Appell took over. The stalwart of Hope's team throughout his career, Appell, a senior from Vicksburg, Mich., was not to be denied in his final collegiate race, and he reeled off a :49.2 quarter mile to beat Calvin's Ken DeGraaf by three yards at the tape.

"I've never seen anything like it," admitted veteran Hope track coach Gordon Brewer.

So, the Hope sports program captured their 15th all-sports award, tops among MIAA schools, with 135 points for the second year in-a-row, followed by Calvin with 124, Albion 102, Alma 96, Kalamazoo 74, Adrian 64, and Olivet 40.

MORE ABOUT MEN'S TRACK

After the Field Day and league championship celebration, Appell, a NCAA All-American, was voted the league's most valuable trackster for the third year in-a-row. Besides contributing to the winning relay team, Appell also won the meet's long jump title with a career-best leap of 23 feet, 1 1/2 inches and repeated as champion of the 200-meter dash.

Joining Appell as title-holders were junior Lindsey Dood of East Lansing, also a repeat champion in the 5,000 and 10,000 meter runs; senior Mike Percy of St. Joseph, Mich. in the pole vault; junior Craig Kingma of Grandville, Mich. in the 1,500 meter run; and sophomore Kevin Cole of Jenison, Mich. in the 800 meter run. MIAA all-conference honors also went to Dood for the second year in-a-row, Cole, Kingma, and Percy.

Sophomore Jim DeWitt posted a new school record in the shot put with a 49 feet, 5 1/2 inch throw this season. DeWitt bested the old mark of 48 feet, 8 3/4 inches set by Scot Van Der Meulen in 1980.

Senior John Groeneveld of South Holland, Ill. qualified for the NCAA Division III national outdoor track and field championship in LaCrosse, Wis. with a career-best javelin throw of 197 feet and finished second at the MIAA Field Day. The qualifying standard in the event was 190 feet, 3 inches.

STILL MORE ABOUT BASEBALL

Last year, senior John Klunder of Grand Rapids, Mich. sat out of baseball competition to take a breather after a long basketball season. Returning this year to the pitching mound, Klunder easily regained his masterful technique during league competition and earned himself the MIAA co-most valuable player prize along with Alma's Hans Martin. The six-foot-five Klunder defeated every MIAA team enroute to posting a 6-0 record this spring. He also had the league's best earned-run-average at 1.40. Over his MIAA career, Klunder was 19-4 with a 1.89 ERA.

On top of his MIAA prowess, Klunder tied the Hope career record for pitching victories. On the season he was 7-3, and he raised his career win total to 22, ending with a 22-13 career record. He shares the record with Greg Heeres who won 22 games from 1982-85.

Senior outfielder Tom Bylsma of Grand Rapids, Mich. also put his name into the Hope record books. Last year's MIAA MVP, Bylsma set a new Hope career batting average mark. He hit .417 this season, second highest in school history, to raise his career average to .363. The previous career high was .332 set by Tony Terracciano from 1974-77. Bylsma also set new career records for most hits (111), triples (9), total bases (177), and runs-batted-in (81).

Single season records were also erased by Bylsma in total hits (41) and total bases (65) while sophomore outfielder Jim Klunder of Grand Rapids established a record for runs-batted-in (40). The younger Klunder also tied the single season mark for homeruns with five, a mark he shares with Pete Rink (1981), Tony Terracciano (1977), Rick Zoulek (1979), and Tom Pelon (1967).

Both Bylsma and Jim Klunder were voted to the MIAA second team along with junior pitcher Mike Tietz of Kentwood, Mich., sophomore designated hitter Bill MacDonald, also of Kentwood, and third baseman Steve Majerle of Traverse City who tied the season league-high doubles mark with seven and was fourth in the league at the plate with a .438 average.

The Flying Dutchmen finished their season with an 18-16 overall record, while going 15-7 during the regular season.

SANDRO TOPS IN TENNIS

In another storybook tale, freshman phenom Colleen Sandro was one of 32 players nationwide selected to compete in the NCAA Division III women's tennis championships in Kalamazoo. The unseeded Sandro advanced through three rounds to the semifinals before being eliminated by the eventual champion of the tournament. The Grand Rapids native was the first Hope women invited to the NCAA national tournament, and she finished her first collegiate season with a 16-4 mark.

Led by Sandro and junior veteran Kim Baxter, the Flying Dutch women's tennis team placed second to Kalamazoo College. Under first year coach Andrea Dahl, Hope was 4-1 in the MIAA, 10-2 overall.

Sandro was voted the league's most valuable player after she captured the first flight singles championship, defeating nationally ranked Linda Topolsky of Kalamazoo in the league championship finals, 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Teammate Baxter of Hastings, Mich. won the second flight singles crown and was voted the recipient of the league's Sue Little Sportsmanship award. It marked the fourth time since 1980 that a Hope player has won that honor. The junior was also voted to the all-MIAA team for the second year in-a-row.

Winning the second flight doubles crown were sophomore Beth Post of LaGrange, Ill. and junior Karen Visscher of Falls Church, Va.

NATIONAL CONTENDER: Freshman Colleen Sandro captured MIAA MVP honors this season then was selected to compete in the NCAA national women's tennis tournament. Sandro finished in the top four, advancing for three rounds before being eliminated in the semi-finals.

SECOND FOR WOMEN'S TRACK

Senior Paula Smith of Penfield, N.Y. was a dominating force behind the Flying Dutch's runnerup status in women's track. An all-around contributor in the long jump, dashes, and relays, Smith was awarded the MIAA most valuable women's trackster honors. At Field Day, Smith won the long jump title for the fourth consecutive year. She also qualified for the NCAA Division III national outdoor track and field championships in the 100-meter dash by posting a season-best time of :11.9 against the national qualifying time of :12.2.

Hope also crowned both hurdle champions on Field Day. Sophomore Becky Herin of Shelby, Mich. captured the 400-meter race while freshman Amy McQuillan of Saginaw, Mich. won at 110 meters.

All-MIAA women's track honors were presented to Herin, McQuillan, Smith, and Sue Buikema, a sophomore from Hudsonville, Mich.

YOUTH WILL TURN TO EXPERIENCE

A young women's softball team, with only one senior and no juniors, finished tied for fourth in their MIAA race with a 3-7 record under coach Anne Irwin. The Flying Dutch finished with a 13-20 overall mark.

Two Hope players were voted to the MIAA all-conference team. Sophomore Barb Gras of Zeeland, Mich. and freshman Dianne Brown of Byron Center, Mich. were elected to the 11-member honor squad by league coaches. Gras pitched and played second for the Flying Dutch while Brown was the centerfielder.

The versatile Gras became the first Hope player to lead the MIAA in hitting as she batted .424 this spring. She was second in the MIAA with total bases (18), tied for the league leadership in triples (2) and was among the leaders in the RBIs (6). On the mound, Gras had a 2.33 earned-run-average while posting a 2-3 record. For the entire season, the sophomore went 6-7 and led the team hitting .348.

BASEBALL BALLYHOO: The Flying Dutchmen baseball team cheered and played their way to a second straight MIAA championship.

Brown's specialty was defense as she had an outstanding .948 fielding average, committing only three errors in 55 chances. The freshman batted .323 in league games and had an overall average of .287.

Flying Dutch team-voting selected sophomore Rhonda Buchanan of Charlevoix, Mich. as the MVP and freshman Amy Warriner of Greenville, Mich. was named the most improved player. Buchanan was also voted to the MIAA second team. She pitched and played shortstop.

Sophomore DeeAnn Knoll of Grand Rapids, Mich. established a new season MIAA record for stolen bases with 10. The old record was nine by Jill Barry of Albion College in 1979. On the season, Knoll stole a school-record 29 bases in 30 attempts.

MEN'S TENNIS REBUILDS

After losing five of last year's eight players, coach Bill Japinga's men's tennis team placed fourth in the MIAA standings this spring with a 3-3 record, 5-7 overall.

Senior Jon Etterbeek of Holland, Mich. was voted to the all-MIAA team, playing first flight singles and doubles. Etterbeek was elected as the MVP by his teammates while Dave Brat, a senior from Minneapolis, Minn., was named the most improved.

SENIOR AWARD WINNERS

Outstanding senior student-athletes were honored for their all-campus contributions. This year's John Schouten Award went to Annette VanEngen of Mattawan, Mich. A physical education major, Van Engen participated in field hockey, basketball, and softball. Blaine Newhouse was given the Otto VanderVelde All-Campus Award this year. A religion major, Newhouse played varsity football for four years and participated in intramural athletics.

MVT Rob Appell

MVT Paula Smith

MVP John Klunder

New tuition discount plan

Concern over the rising cost of a college education has become a legitimate worry for parents of college-bound students these days. Hearing astronomical figures tossed about in inflationary fashion could put a scare into any banking account. Those figures say a modest six percent inflation rate could raise tuition for four years at a moderately-priced private college to over $50,000 by 1999.

But Hope College has a solution for its alumni and friends in the form of a newly-instituted tuition prepayment program.

The Hope College Alumni-Friends Tuition Program will enable alumni and friends of the college to make a prepayment toward four years of tuition at a substantial discount. Organized through Prudential-Bache investment firm, Forbes Magazine calls the new program "the most innovative development in college tuition financing since the G.I. Bill." But as most parents can attest, any program that can bring down the cost of higher education is not only innovative but gratefully welcome.

The investing family will be able to pay one lump sum to Hope. The college will then assure a four-year education, or 126 credit hours, for the future student.

Children, grandchildren, dependents, nephews, and nieces of Hope College alumni and friends are eligible on a first-come, first-served basis since a limited number of openings are available for each class. Those openings are reserved for future students up to the age of 17. Another benefit of the program will be pre-enrollment advising offered by the college admissions staff to the participants during their pre-college years.

The response to an initial introductory mailing has already been overwhelming according to William Anderson, vice president for business and finance at Hope. Approximately 100 alumni and friends have responded to this non-obligatory mailing.

Since the parents are making an educational decision for their child with this plan, the Alumni-Friends Tuition program allows for some future flexibility, according to Anderson.

If the child decides not to attend Hope or does not meet the criteria for enrollment, the college will refund the amount paid by the individual for the program.

If the child wants to transfer to another school, the program states that the student must take the first thirty credits at Hope. After that, if the student elects to transfer, Hope will pay for the next 96 credits at 80 percent of Hope's tuition rate or the elected school's, whichever is less. The transfer school must be of the same accreditation level as Hope and the student must maintain a grade point average of at least 2.5 on a 4.0 scale in order to transfer.

If the child does meet the criteria of Hope College, but for some reason Hope can't enroll the student, the college will pay the child's tuition for 126 credits at any qualified school at Hope's tuition rate or the elected school's rate, whichever is less.

For more information on the Hope College Alumni-Friends Tuition Program, write to: Hope College Business Office, DeWitt Center, Holland, Michigan 49423 or call (616) 392-5111 ext. 2005.

Sophomore Shelly Huisken teaches German to some Holland area youngsters during Hope's newly-instituted involvement in the West Ottawa Learning Group.

Teach me how to talk like that

by Julie G. Ridl '82

It's 8 a.m. at Lakewood Elementary, one hour before the Holland school will explode with the arrival of buses unloading hundreds of children to start their normal school day. The corridors and classrooms are quiet now, except for a few strange sounds floating through the empty halls. The echoing noise is coming from the gym.

Inside, dwarfed by the expansive room, is a small group of eight children, ages ranging from six to 11. Split into two teams, the Cubs and the Pirates, they are playing the word game "hang-man" with their teacher, Kim Thomas. Trying to play along with the children is a bit frustrating, however, until you realize that the words they are spelling are Spanish.

"M-a-n-o (arm), l-a-s-a-l-l-a-d-e c-l-a-s-e (classroom), p-i-z-a-r-r-a (chalkboard)."

The excitement is barely contained as the two teams compete by spelling out the Spanish word, then translating it to English for points. Sometimes the players blurt out a pivotal letter though — or even the word itself — out of turn. When that happens, no one gets the points. It happens often. The scores are low.

More voices float up from the library downstairs. But these voices are quite different.

"Der Hunt (hat), das Schiff (ship), das Flugzeug (plane)."

Here students are making collages, drawing pictures, then labeling them in German. The exercises are used as a review of the children's already-extensive German vocabulary. But as imaginations take over, those vocabularies grow.

"How do you say 'semi'?"

"What's the word for 'jet'?"

Their teacher, Shelly Huisken, pronounces the words for them, then writes them on a slip of paper so they can copy them onto their collages.

Kim and Shelly are two of six Hope students who, since January, have been teaching foreign languages to elementary school students in Holland's West Ottawa school district.

The program is completely optional to the elementary children who normally would not have any exposure to a foreign language until they reached junior high. And, even in junior high, foreign languages are optional and not guaranteed. The elementary concept originated five years ago when active West Ottawa parents, Rick and Judy Linn, decided to offer Spanish lessons to area children.

Last year, a class was taught by Edith MacDonald, a 1985 Hope graduate, with great success. The idea of dipping further into Hope's pool of talented foreign language students became a reality when the Linns contacted Ion Agheana, chairperson of the foreign language department.

Agheana jumped at the idea and decided to offer not only Spanish teachers, but French and German instructors as well. Senior Linda Moeller, junior Thomas, and sophomore Dwight Tenhuisen teach Spanish; French is taught by sophomore Michelle Workman and junior Jennifer Parks; and sophomore Huisken teaches German.

The West Ottawa Learning Group, as the program is called, offers excellent educational opportunities for student and teacher alike. The children, at an age when they are known to be most receptive, are introduced to the mystery and excitement of learning other languages and cultures. And the Hope teachers' lessons are valuable as well.

"They are given a sort of professional initiation," says Agheana. "They start feeling confident and needed, feeling useful, and it's very satisfying for them because they have learned to be independent professionals."

And the six teachers are independent. They are given the freedom to create their own course curricula, to work at their own pace, to set the entire scene as they choose. The young instructors draw upon their experience as foreign language "ATs," or assistant teachers. Each one of them have taught language drill classes at Hope. As ATs, they have learned to manage their teaching material and present it to their peers, fellow students who are often more reserved, something their younger charges certainly are not.

Each teacher has found that the greatest reward and satisfaction in their community work is the enthusiasm their students have for a topic so new to them.

Organizer Judy Linn stresses that enthusiasm for learning languages is the main goal for the program — to get the children interested in learning about other people, cultures, and languages before peer and societal pressures set in. And it works. The children's enthusiasm is contagious.

"They love to pick up things just for the fun of it," notes Moeller.

Therein lies another of the program's golden rules: to keep the learning fun by using games, crafts, and dramatization of words and phrases to build the vocabulary. There is some dialogue work and just a bit of grammar instruction. The more difficult concepts are left out of the program because of the range of the students' ages. What a fifth grader finds easy to pick up is often beyond the comprehension of a first grader.

This problem somewhat limits the progress of the classes. The cure will depend on continued parental interest. But it is the only growing pain for an already-successful cooperative program. This year's numbers were better than the previous year, and Linn

Continued on page 22

Springtime in the Antarctic: Edith Smoot picked the rocks

by Eva D. Folkert

Now is no time to be thinking of brisk, snow-laden winds numbing chattering teeth when dreams of tan, peeling skin occupy the mind. Now is no time to talk of frigid, crackling snow when thoughts of warm sand, clinging between the toes, are prevalent. No, it's just not the time to remember that long, oh so long, winter's nap when the sweet, oh so anticipated, summer's awakening is here.

But Edith Smoot, assistant professor of biology, doesn't mind remembering those cold, hard facts. It's the cold facts she likes reminiscing about and the hard facts she enjoys researching.

Smoot spent the past academic year on a leave of absence, a temporary parting from Hope that resulted in a five-week excursion to Antarctica where she, along with three other people in her research team, collected fossil plants — 11 tons of fossil plants.

The newest full-time member on the biology faculty, having joined the college in 1983, Smoot is a paleobotanist, a scholar of plant fossils and ancient vegetation. She is also Hope's first paleobotanist. And in the same year she came to the college, the young professor was named Michigan's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year, an honor given by the leaders of national women's organizations.

The rocks Smoot and Company sledged up in the Great White South are samples of petrified peat, "kind of like a compost heap," she explains. "But the plants have been silicified, meaning silica has impregnated the plant cells and turned the heap to stone."

The result is plants preserved in three-dimensions, usually fully intact. But 11 tons of fossil rock . . . really now.

"The problem is that you never know what you have until the rocks are slabbed up and put under a microscope," Smoot says. "So the more rock, the better. You're more likely to have an entire plant that way. Actually, we didn't even make a dent in Antarctica's surface."

Smoot's main interest is charting the evolution of the plants and defining how their composition has changed through the ages. But why Antarctica? Why not South America where some of the sun-loving petrified plants go?

"Petrified plants of the Triassic Age (about 240 million years old) can only be found in Antarctica. Actually very few plants of any age, anywhere in the world, are petrified.

"Besides, ever since I was an undergrad, I've wanted to go to Antarctica. I was attracted by the romantic feeling of the Antarctic's remoteness, walking where no other person has ever been before. I was also fascinated by the effect Antarctica's thin, clear air has on a person's perception of distance. What you might think is a rock several hundred yards away can really be a tip of a mountain, 10 miles away."

POLAR PALEOBOTANIST: Edie Smoot learns the true meaning of frigid winds.

The expedition was funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF) and directed by Dr. Thomas N. Taylor of Ohio State University. Smoot earned her three degrees at OSU, achieving her doctorate under Taylor.

The paleobotanists left for the icy South by way of Christchurch, New Zealand last October, springtime for the world down under. By the time the group reached Antarctica from their midwestern departure point, they had compiled 25 hours of air time, crossed seven time zones, and ended the excursion with some mighty fine jet-lag.

The three-day lay-over in New Zealand was not only appropriate for jet-lag recovery but necessary to allow Navy pilots an assurance of good flying weather into the Antarctica's continually changing weather patterns. More importantly, the scientists needed to stop by the NSF warehouse to "shop" for the wintery gear that would change them from short-sleeved civilians to modern-day eskimos.

Antarctica is the coldest, highest, and driest continent in the world. The average temperature inland for the entire year is -35° C (-25° F); 58 percent of the continent is over 6,500 feet above sea level while 25 percent is over 8,500 feet above sea level; and less than one inch of snow falls each year, making Antarctica drier than the Sahara. And that inch never melts either, it just blows around. Blizzards at the Cap are not the result of falling snow but are caused by swirling, blowing snow.

So the scientists equipped themselves with three pairs of boots (one pair of white rubber Bunny boots and two pairs of muck-lucks), lined pants, flannel shirts, suspenders, waffle-weave long underwear, a red fur-lined parka, and a nifty wool helmet that covered every facial feature but the eyes — normally protected by dark, mirrored sunglasses anyway — giving the bearer a resemblance akin to a human insect.

"But the sunglasses were one of our most important pieces of equipment," says Smoot. "Snow blindness was a real problem, and the glasses needed to keep out 100 percent of the ultraviolet and infrared rays. Fifteen minutes without your glasses could cause permanent eye damage."

When the weather finally permitted, a trans-Pacific flight into Antarctica took them first to McMurdo Naval Base on Ross Island and eventually 500 miles farther inland to their field position near Beardmore Camp in the Transantarctic Mountains. Both are U.S. facilities used to promote scientific research on the polar continent.

In fact, the only people "down there" are scientists and naval personnel. It is a distinct privilege to be one of approximately 100 scientists who visit Antarctica each year. And most of those scientists study the wildlife and glacial movements. Very few are paleobotanists.

Since McMurdo is located on the coast, it is relatively warm, comparatively speaking. In the summer, it actually gets close to the freezing mark (32° F—0° C) and in the winter, it averages -30° C. But even with its seemingly more tolerable temps, McMurdo is not a place known for its scenic beauty.

"If I had to stay at McMurdo the entire time I was in Antarctica, I would really have been depressed because it's an ugly place," she laughs. "It's built on a volcanic island so the ground is black cinder and there isn't enough snow to cover it up."

The main purpose for their stop at the naval base, though, was to participate in a three-day emergency survival course and instruction in food-packing so each scientist could become a "certified" venturer.

When the "Survival Training Circus" was in town, Antarctic experts taught the cold weather newcomers the finer points of climbing out of a crevasse without help; kicking or cutting steps to climb up a mountainside; purposefully falling down a mountain feet first, head first, on the back or on the stomach so as to stop one's body by using an ice pick; building a snow shelter igloo-style; and learning how to walk across a crevassed-field, roped together. Captain Robert Scott should have known so much.

The food-packing was the least energetic exercise in basic training. But it was nothing like tossing a few sandwiches into a basket and heading out for a picnic. Smoot and team needed to consult on packing enough food for five weeks, for four people. They were told to not pack cans of juice, for example, because they would freeze solid and never thaw in the field. Frozen food, on the other hand, would not be a problem. So, in went the lobster tails and sirloins along with the unelegant staples. "NSF figures the environment is so tough down there, you'd might as well eat well," Smoot chuckles.

Besides, the human body burns 2,000 calories a day just staying warm in Antarctica. That figure doesn't include the calories expended by walking, wielding an ice pick, or spiking a volleyball (a favorite pastime at Beardmore Camp where cut-throat play is a lot like the beach, only a misjudgment results in a snowy face instead of a sandy one).

"Dehydration is a real problem too," Smoot explains. "There is usually only three percent humidity, and with the load of clothing you have to wear, you sweat like a pig. Most of the time, we would just eat candy bars, nuts, and cookies for lunch as we worked. If I did that here, I'd be ill."

Continued on page 23

Memories of yesteryear

Warm but windy weather conditions welcomed 10 class reunions on Alumni Day '86, held May 3.

Reunions held for the classes of 1926, 1931, 1936, 1941, 1946, 1951, 1956, 1961, 1966, and 1971 were the most get-togethers ever held on Alumni Day. Usually, the Hope 50-year Circle encompasses all reuniting alums who graduated more than a half-century ago. But this year, the classes of 1926 and 1931 extended those alumni circle festivities to include their own spring gatherings, resulting in the ninth and tenth reunions.

The class of 1926, though, is the first class to gather for a 12th reunion since they were the first to hold a 55-year reunion five years ago. Gathering at the Van Wylen's newly-renovated Presidents' Home, class members had been looking forward to this event for the last five years, ever since the close of their 55th. Now, there were updated events to catch up on and, of course, some memories to reawaken.

Who but the reunited members of the class of 1926 could remember paying $25 a semester for tuition; remember putting on the Hope 60-year anniversary pageant; remember literature instructor Martha Gibson and music great, English professor and dean of men John Nykerk; remember football with leather helmets and the beginning of a tennis team.

They have watched five presidents direct the college; watched the campus grow from their four-building world to the current facade of 60 years of different architecture;

Continued on center page

Class of '26 Row 1: Henry Bos, Mabelle DuMez Frei, Dorothy Vander Kolk Andrews, Lois Brockmeier Annis, Ann Barkema Weller, Margaret Anderson DePree, Edward Fieldhouse, George Damson
Row 2: Edythe Klerk, Mildred Bertsch VanEenenaam, Geraldine Dykhuizen, Norman VanderHart Row 3: Jeannette Veldman, Marion Landaal Sisson, Dorothy

Dick, Theodore Essebagggers, Albert Schaafsma
Row 4: Catherine Wilson VanDenBrink, Anne Westerhoff Albers, Mildred Ramaker Kemme, Aaron Ungersma, Marion Laepple Schaafsma
Row 5: Ted VanDenBrink, James VerMeulen, Alonzo Wierenga, Gerrit Kemme, Barnerd Luben, Al Derks, Fred Olert

Class of '31 Row 1: Margaret Westveer Steffens, Nelson Bosman, Evelyn Heffron, Arnold Dykhuizen, Janet Kollen Schreuder, Paul Brouwer, Tillie Masselink Friesema, Lillian Smies
Row 2: Jo DeHaan Wyma, Marian Anderson Stryker, Cynthia Palmer Healy, Willard

Wichers, Mildred Schuppert, Don Vanden Bunte, Eunice Hyma Bos, Esther Glerum Lake, Clarence Becker, Sadie Masselink Winter, Melvin Klaaster, John Schuiling, Betty Smith Becker

Class of '36 Row 1: Mae Van Hartesveldt Veldhuis, Ruth Muilenburg Jeffery, Alice Englesman Redeker, Agnes Patterson, Pat VanKoeveering Prins, Harriet Laman, Anne Dethmers Huizenga, Jennie DeVries Venhuizen, Bill Welmers, Vera Damstra Hayden, Dorothy Kleis Hume
Row 2: Janice Van Koeveering Hildebrand, Doris VanLente Neckers, Willard Westveer, Milt Spaan, Les VanTatenhove, Foster VanVliet, Betty Goehner Boven, Ruth Burkett Park
Row 3: Ben Plasman, Dick Walvoord, Lois VanZomereren De Blaay, Gilbert Plasman,

Leon DeJongh, Emma Zagers Yntema, Stanley Boven, Helena Visscher Winter, Jean Rottschaefer VanderVelde
Row 4: David Laman, George Douma, Florence Vis Douma, Dorothy Eckerson Atkinson, Henry Kinkema, John Piet, Stan Joeckel, Albert Mansen, John Buteyn, Lois VanderMeulen Ellert
Row 5: Mina Becker Buys, George Heeringa, James DeWeerd, John VanderMeulen, Roger Leestma, Henry Kleinheksel, Myron Kollen, George De Witt

Class of '41 Row 1: Lois Glerum Alofs, Mary Jacobs Hakken, Marthene Van Dyke Dykstra, Ruth De Young Potts, Margie Bilkert Lemmer, Phyllis Newcastle Jalving, Eloise Boynton Bosch, Ruby Carpenter Steketee
Row 2: Hulda Rigterink Folkert, Fritz Bertsch, Phillip Waalkes, Tunis Miersma, Helen VanKooy Marcus, Tess VanDyke Dinkeloo, Jack Jalving, Kay Douma DePue, Henry Voogd, Doris Van Lente Slager

Row 3: Ruth Klaasen Wassenaar, Edith Rameau Eenigenburg, Birdie Vis VanWyk, Gordon Van Wyk
Row 4: Harold Colenbrander, Harold Hakken, Theodore Zandstra, Howard VanEgmond, Chester Toren, Elton Gogolin, Bob Dykstra, Walter Macak, Fritz Claerbout, William Jesiek

Class of '46 Row 1: Libby Romaine Hillegonds, Paul Fried, Elaine Bielefeld Walchenbach, Miriam Siebert Krum, Kenneth Stickney, Calvin Malefy
Row 2: Bunny Goff Marcussen, Wilbur Brandli, Adeline Sybesma, Clarice Peterson Hensbrough, Lucille Teninga Toren, John Geary

Row 3: Bob Snow, Joyce Timmer Seaman, Herbert Leigh Manuell, Harriet Stegeman VanDonkelaar, Marian Mastenbrook Smith, Janet Huizenga, Dale VanLente
Row 4: Max Boersma, Helga Sawitzky Lucius, Dale Stoppels, MaryLou Hemmes Koop, Elsie Parsons Lamb

Class of '51 Row 1: Alice Gravenhorst Cook, Elmer Vrugink, Margaret Schoonveld Kraay, Suzellen Roest Webb, Joyce Post Schipper, Nancylee Corp Marema, Marie Haldenwang Goodwin, John Van Eenenaam, Lynne Van Weelden Ihrman, Eloise Hinkamp Van Heest
Row 2: Connie Shilling Kruse, Bob Japinga, Arlene Shoemaker Timmerman, Dorothy Fennema Voss, Beatrice Soodsma VanPernis, Lois Timmer Appledorn, Dutch Van Ingen, Al

Class of '61 Row 1: Barbara VanderMolen, Jane Wezeman Smith, Barbara Amos Stegink, Marlene Gouwens McNally, Carol Joelson Sytsma, Ruth Ausema Hofmeyer, Joni Clayton, Mary Harmeling Toppen, Priscilla Estell, Mary Decker Klaaren, Judy Eastman Faber, Margie Kempers Wiegerink, Nancy Mulder Timmer, Arlene Cizek Schoon, Sharon Crossman Bolthouse, Sharon Smith Hall, Marilyn Fugazzotto Looyenga, Helene Bosch Zwighuizen, Adina Yonan VanBuren
Row 2: Mary Hoesbergen DeVries, Linda Gordon DenUyl, Marilyn Freeman DeVries, Phyllis Smith DenUyl, Marilyn Rocks Cox, Eleanor VerBurg VanDyke,

Sylvia Wildschut Fox, Phyllis Prins Brown, Norma DeBoer, Cal Bruins, Bonnie Bruins, Terry Hofmeyer, Bruce Hoffman, Thomas Bos, Dorothy Welch Bennink, Beth Wichers DuMez, James Fox, Richard Jaarsma, Fritz Kruithof, Ron Beyer, Jim Betke
Row 3: Mark DeWitt, Gordon Stegink, John Vandenburg, Clark Matthews, Dean Nederveld, Tom Bos, Ron Wiegerink, Merle Klienhuizen, Wally Van Buren, Chuck Truby, George Boerigter, Calvin Rynbrandt, Dale Schoon, Jim Bolthouse, Dan Ritsema, Tom Aardema

60-year reunion

Continued from page 1

and watched graduating from their numbers of 532.

But more than tang stirred on their 60-year 29 of their original 92 sentimental bonds of Hope's spiritual influence about more than the ta commitment the class of Hope College is just a when they first became years ago.

"If I look back over of all the things I've o how those things could without the good solid Hope College gave me Wierenga of South Ha could I have been a tea if it wasn't for the ins Dr. Winter in education taught math or worke development lab with Kleis taught me or the Professor Lampen off

As for the festive a chattering that flowed room of the house. Je retired RCA missiona had this to say: "It do years but it's always r acquainted with old f changed, of course, a the name, then sudder younger person you fi in the face you look a doesn't seem like 60 y too fast. As for our 65 as they say in Arabic, willing."

Boers, Al Rauschenbach, Don Hazekamp
 Row 3: Jeannine DeBoer Milne, Beth Thomson Murley, Barbara VanNeuren Taylor, Marijane Borr Mead, Ellen Lidston Rieck, Marjorie Fenton Davis, Delores Freyling Campbell, Gene Campbell, Bill Hamelink
 Row 4: Bob Stoppels, Maurice Boon, Kenneth DeWitt, Jean Droppers, Jack Boeskool, Bill Van't Hoff, Hugh Campbell, Bob Hartley, Alicia VanZooeren Hermance

Class of '56 Row 1: Barbara Brookstra Suby, Chris Denny Connaire, Carol Kuper DeWitt, Alyce DePree, Barbara Kruizenga Davies, Marianne Wierks Van Eenenaam, Mary Jane Adams Dykema, Margery Addis VerBeek, Nancy Lubben Plantenga, Charmaine Vandermyde Stegenga
 Row 2: Barbara Lowing Brink, Richard TenHaken, Vernon Hoffman, Elaine Vrugink Spieldenner, John Adams, Karl VanderLaan, Art Bieri, Tom McCall, Henry Stegenga

Row 3: Judy Kingma Hazeltop, Eileen Mugg Nordstrom, John VerBeek, Wilma Beets Nock, John Kools, Mary Burggraaff VanderKooy, Barbara Grasman Grootenhuis, Janice Polhemus Jessup, Jerry Redeker, Glennyce Kleis Russcher, Theodore Bosch
 Row 4: Robert DeYoung, Lois Tornga Veldman, Jack DePree, Jim Kremer, Barb Pennings Kremer, Thomas Ten Hoeve, Barbara Jeffrey Neevel, James Neevel

unh...
 m page 12
 graduating classes increase of 92 to this year's than tangible recollections 64-year reunion day when 92 gathered. The bonds of friendship and mutual influence were talked than the tangibilities. The the class of 1926 has toward is just as strong today as became acquainted 64

back over 60 years, and think I've done, one wonders could have been possible good solid foundation which gave me," said Alonzo South Haven, Mich. "How been a teacher and principal or the instruction I got from education; how could I have or worked in a research and lab without the physics Dr.
 me or the mathematics mpen offered."

festive atmosphere and the at flowed from almost every house. Jeanette Veldman, a missionary from Holland, day: "It doesn't feel like 60 s always fun getting with old friends. Faces have course, and first you'll see then suddenly you'll see that son you first knew long ago, you look at now. But it really like 60 years. Time goes by for our 65-year reunion, well, in Anibic, In Sha-la—God

Class of '66 Row 1: Cheryl Richardson Peterson, Vicki VanEck Hill, Carol Witter Miedema, Sharon Nanninga Rosine, Cheryl Rollston Sturgis, Rick Strong, Sue Short Strong, Ellen Borger Monsma, Kathy Walsma Jackson, Robert Jackson, John Wormuth, Joyce Marriott Cook
 Row 2: Allen Miedema, Anita Joeckel, Carol Howes Wilbur, Marilyn Hoffman Serum, Tommye Leenhouts, Joanne Wognum Hoeksema, Joan tenHoor, Mary

Hakken Mulder, Don McClow, Rich Wepfer, Ruth Meyer Nienhuis, Pat Elzerman Eenigenburg, Bill Cook
 Row 3: Martha Campbell Costos, Jeanne Frissel VanTil, Carol Borst Cousineau, Donna Engelsman Bishop, Margaret Diephuis Mackay, Sharon Wiechman Seamon, Graham Duryee, Herman Hoeksema, Jack Buteyn, Clare VanWieren, Bud Edman, John Knapp, Dave Heusinkveld, Skip Nienhuis, Brian Dolphin, Joyce Flipse

Class of '71 Row 1: Fran Hooper, Ruth Huizenga Robbins, Nancy Schellenberg, Nancy Johnson Brown, Laura Mumford, Lynda Dethmers Sittser, Karen Koeman Schley, Nancy Banta Harms, Barb Godshalk Lester, Nancy Warner Taylor, Joyce VanHouzen Stacy, Susan von Bergen O'Connor, Nancy Riekse Norden
Row 2: Mary Scott Siptak, Corinne Haringa VanderMolen, Pat DeBoer Pedersen, Sharon Tucker, Ross Mack, Patricia Machiela Mack, Jane Witherspoon Jungst, Sherry Slager

Heart, Norine Everson Jones, Debbie Clinton Stack, Tom Stack, Meredith Jensen Purvis, Mary Gunther Piers, Carrie Krahe Norris, Pamela Parker Thornburg
Row 3: Woody Woudenberg, Hoss Bone, Chumly Nadalsky, Geep Bosscher, Brian Koop, Keith Crossland, Gary VanKempen, Arlan TenClay, Lon Eriks, Glenn Lowe, Bill O'Connor, John Norden

Sentimental journey

by Doug Holm '86

As I looked around Phelps dining hall during the Senior Banquet in April, I couldn't help but think about another banquet held almost four years earlier. We were all a little different then, when as a part of freshman orientation, the Class of 1986 met together for the first time at the Freshman Banquet.

1986 seemed so far away. Everybody was nervous about the upcoming weeks. For many of us, this was our first time away from home. What was this college life going to be like, anyway?

I remember sitting in a corner of the dining hall, where our table got served last, and we couldn't see any of the speakers. And in the barrage of new faces, I just couldn't keep names straight.

Those faces and names were all-too familiar this time around, though. Like many others, I had come to know a good part of the class, and here we were on the verge of graduation. Those faces told of the trials and joys of the last four years as well as the exciting and unpredictable future. We found out what college life was like; now it was time for the "real world."

I was smart enough not to sit in the corner this time. The program ran a little long, and many people had other things to do. But I didn't really care. Being something of a sentimental fool, I stayed until the end. Maybe I did because of something that happened a few months earlier.

I was talking to a friend who attends a Big Ten university and was also graduating this spring. When I asked him if he was going to his commencement, he answered, "No." It wasn't worth it, he said, to spend so much time just to stand up with hundreds of others for a few seconds.

I thought about that while sitting at the banquet, and while waiting to walk across the platform at commencement. I thought that the things I would miss most about Hope was not the campus or classes, but the people who had made my journey here memorable.

Risky business: Who's afraid of Chapter 11*?

by Eva D. Folkert

"Business without profit is not business any more than a pickle is candy."

So says Charles F. Abbott.

Not so says Dick Frank '70 and Ervin Bolks '64.

Usually the words "bankrupt and Chapter Eleven" ominously loom in the back of a businessperson's profit-pitched mind. Stepping into a business which has a red-ink-muddled ledger of impending liquidation is usually not the best way to assure a paycheck at the end of the week. Steer clear, they say. Only fools walk in where wise men fear to trade.

Usually that's what most businesspeople would do. But Frank and Bolks are not most businesspeople. They are entrepreneurs of risky business where financially unstable is an understatement. Almost dead would be more appropriate.

By their standards, though, there just might be a lucrative candy center inside Abbott's sour pickle of debt.

The sagacious duo are the leaders of two national corporations which were on the verge of bankruptcy before they took over. Frank is the chairman of the board of Show Biz Pizza Time of Dallas, Tx., a division of Brock Hotel. One-hundred and forty million dollars in debt, Show Biz did not file for Chapter 11 and consequently saved high court costs. This out-of-court settlement plan is believed to be the largest, non-legal restructuring in American history.

Bolks is vice president and treasurer of Wickes Companies of Santa Monica, Calif. which, when it filed for Chapter 11 two-and-a-half years ago, was $1.6 billion in debt. Wickes emerged from Chapter 11 in 1985, however, making it the largest, nonrailroad turnaround in American history. (Penn Central gets overall award with its 1970 filing.)

"Maybe you do have to be a little crazy to do this," laughed Bolks, "but I think the overall fascination deals with the challenge of trying to make something work that others have gotten into a position of not working."

"The amount of risk anyone takes is dependent, to some degree, on the amount of intangible rewards that they see at the end," Frank added.

Herb bombed and Clara got ousted. So in the world of fast food, or relatively-fast food in Show Biz's case, a new gimmick will hopefully be an effective and lasting gimmick. For Show Biz, it was the advent of the video game.

In the late 70s and early 80s, the zipping and zapping of 60 to 70 video games at Show Biz included the likes of the faddish PacMan and Space Invaders games. The revenue those machines generated made up a very large part of the pizza chain's early financial success. But like Clara and Herb, the video game fell from grace and so too did a good deal of Show Biz's profits.

Today, only 15 to 20 machines beep and blast in the Show Biz carnival-like atmosphere. The franchise has shifted gears from the teenage target to young family demographics, aiming their marketing at children between two and 12. Now, technical wizardry has been replaced with back-to-basic activities like basketball hoops, whiffleball batting cages, kiddie rides and play areas.

"Our first priority was to restructure the debt though. But, as we progressed, we never lost sight of our number one objective — sales," said Frank. "We introduced a new pizza product while still holding our prices constant; we renovated the stores to make them more functional and attractive for the parents; and we have offered a compensation program to our managers as an incentive to increase sales."

And of course, Billy Bob, the friendly bear, still sings on stage with his menagerie of mechanical friends.

In the eight months Frank has been with Show Biz, the sales reports have started to turn upward from a previous four-year 15 percent dive, now edging up approximately five percent from the prior year. The young executive expects Show Biz to make a profit for the first time since 1982, a feat resulting from his own sound judgement and work with a corporate-rescue financing company called the Hallwood Group of Europe, who ultimately guaranteed capital to satisfy the pizza company's creditor groups.

A Lynchburg, Virginia native, Frank's first occupational goal was not aimed toward the restaurant world. For three years after graduation, the physical education and English major taught at the Zeeland (Mich.) public schools. A fraternity buddy got him interested in restaurant management, though, and he left teaching to work for the Steak & Ale chain in Atlanta. During his 12 years with Steak & Ale, Frank proverbially rose through the ranks and became the chief operating officer for the Pillsbury Inc.-owned operation, also based in Dallas. By his own definition, Frank's example speaks well for the liberal arts education he received at Hope.

The jump from Steak & Ale to Show Biz was one he had been waiting for, Frank said. He was at the point in his life and career when a risk factor was welcome. Plus, Show Biz is smaller than Steak & Ale, and he liked that too.

"Besides, in wanting something that involved a certain amount of risk, I knew I would be inviting a great deal of challenge. There is an overwhelming sense of gratitude from turning a business around. And that is the real reward."

Ervin Bolks is not only not afraid of working for financially troubled companies, he goes looking for them.

Before contributing to the drastic 180 degree turnaround the dying Wickes made, Bolks was a significant part of a team that worked their same magic on Republic Corporation of Century City, Calif. Sanford Sigoloff headed the Republic effort, and when he was asked to take over Wickes, Sigoloff invited his team from Republic to join him. Bolks accepted.

Republic is a multi-diversified conglomerate which owns many small companies, mainly film, printing and manufacturing subsidiaries. Although that big business did not file for Chapter 11, the executive team began paring back a number of unprofitable companies and liquidated assets to pay down and restructure the debt in such a way that the corporation could carry it. By the time Sigoloff, Bolks and crew trimmed back the conglomerate, 120 smaller companies became 13.

"When we went to Wickes, we did virtually the same things we had done at Republic, except this time we had to file for Chapter 11," said Bolks, a business administration major while at Hope, who holds his M.B.A. from The University of Michigan.

"It was a matter of working with 23 extremely diverse creditor committees because there were a number of different people who had different creditor interests in Wickes. And it came down to negotiating settlements, liquidating a number of unprofitable divisions, and recapitalizing and regrowing the keepers to get Wickes on its feet again."

Like Republic, Wickes is also diversified with holdings in lumber, building supplies, furniture, drug stores and other retailing businesses. So because of its retailing nature, Wickes struck up a new advertising campaign with C.E.O. Sigoloff going on the tube to promote his products, a la Lee Iaccoca. It was an approach that put profit back into the books for the $4 billion company. However, "it was arguably the most complicated corporate reorganization ever," said Executive Magazine.

Now that Wickes has emerged from Chapter 11, it's already starting to make

Continued on page 25

*Chapter 11 is part of the 1978 Bankruptcy Reform Act that deals with the reorganization of a bankrupt company. Under bankruptcy laws, such a company may be permitted by the court to continue doing business for a time as long as it pays off its current debt. The debtor remains in possession of the company but it must emerge from Chapter 11, through reorganization, or cease doing business.

Business risk-takers Ervin Bolks '64 (left) and Dick Frank '70, entrepreneurs who have no fear of Chapter 11.

The tribulations of a campus cause

by Doug Holm '86

One hundred and seventeen wooden crosses stood solemnly as the March breeze blew through the Hope College Pine Grove. Planted by about 40 Hope students and faculty to protest the college's investment policy regarding companies operating in South Africa, the crosses symbolized the deaths of South African blacks in apartheid-related violence since the Board of Trustees met January 31.

The quiet protest had been organized by the Anti-Apartheid Action Coalition (AAAC), a new campus group with which I had become deeply involved. We listened to Bible passages and a eulogy delivered by Rev. Sidney Ngobe, a student from Soweto, South Africa who was studying at Western Theological Seminary. In a moving ceremony, everyone planted crosses as several students read newspaper reports of deaths in South Africa.

Afterwards, junior Scott Carpenter, who meeting for the student newspaper, the anchor. As a history major, I was not only familiar with South Africa's history, but also its current situation. I'm always trying to keep in touch with world events. That's something I think is very important (and at times difficult when the study-loads build) for us students to do.

I also knew about the divestment/disinvestment issue because it was my debate topic in a communication class the previous semester. And I was in favor of it; my feeling at the time being that groups outside of South Africa should stand up and use any influence possible to force change in South Africa before the violent situation there became irreversible. I also felt Hope College should take a concrete stand against the white government's racist apartheid institution. And through divestment, I thought that could be done.

But I was hesitant nonetheless. I didn't want to commit myself. I had never been involved with an activist group like this. What would it be like? Would we be arrested in 1963. Now, I was doing something similar, and that felt good.

I suppose you could say I didn't know what I was getting myself into; maybe none of us did. We made a few mistakes, but on the whole, our activities were successful — especially the sit-in. Held on January 31 in the DeWitt Center (while the Board of Trustees met on campus), it lasted nine hours, featured several speakers and attracted about 175 people who sat for various lengths of time. I was most impressed by the college faculty. Not only did a few speak to inform the group, but many joined in sitting.

But by far the most challenging part of our activities was trying to influence the campus — to inform the student body about apartheid and divestment, and make it a relevant issue. We had mixed results.

For both the January sit-in and the March protest, the AAAC provided information tables for students and faculty during the days just prior to both events. We manned the tables, making packets available containing basic information about apartheid and divestment, new information packets which Scott and I had painstakingly put together lay unread. It seemed as if the ball had stopped rolling now.

Very disappointed at what seemed outright apathy, I had some horrible thoughts about Hope students with their heads buried in the sand. Sixties activist Abbie Hoffman's condemnation of us college students having "designer brains" kept running through my head. I got angry one night in Phelps watching someone crush one of our "table tents" publicizing the Pine Grove protest. I thought about how our posters had been torn down back in January, and how people were mocking us now. And, among other things, we were being accused of "coercing" people to our points of view in the campus press. I'd had enough.

Then came the Pine Grove protest and the crosses were left standing for a day without incident. It was then I realized what a give-and-take situation we were in.

We had some effect. Many more people were aware of the situation in South Africa and the issue of divestment, and many had had been vital in carrying out many of the details of the protest, was hauling loudspeakers back to a friend's pick-up when he spotted two students watching from a nearby sidewalk.

"Save the Whales," one said sarcastically as Scott walked past.

That incident is indicative of the frustrations the AAAC felt as it tried to raise campus consciousness on the issue of divestment from companies doing business in South Africa. I found this both trying and rewarding.

At times I was enthused about what we were doing, how we were making people think twice about the issue. At other moments, however, I was disheartened by the lack of a widespread response on campus, how students seemed to laugh it off and not deal with the issue. And more than once I felt like giving up.

I kind of slipped into being involved with the AAAC. During the second week of last semester, senior Robert Hoke asked me to come to a meeting where students were going to plan a sit-in to protest the policy of continued investment in companies operating in South Africa. I hesitated. I wasn't too sure about all this. Would a sit-in actually occur on the usually staid and conservative Hope College campus?

I copped out and decided to cover the

at the sit-in?

The AAAC had sprung up a year earlier when the issue of divestment had been first raised. The Hope College Student Congress had sent a letter asking the Board of Trustees to demonstrate opposition to the South African government's racist institution of apartheid. Meanwhile, the AAAC got 700 Hope students to sign petitions calling for divestment. After that, however, the AAAC lay dormant until that early January meeting.

I had always romantically looked at the social protests of the 1960s, wondering what it was like to participate, say, in the March on Washington in 1963.

Now, I was doing something similar, and that felt good.

The group of 15 people that emerged from the meeting, however, transformed the AAAC, and I found myself in the middle of it. There was no sudden revelation which inspired me to become active; a light bulb did not flash over my head. I was just moved by the "we-can-do something" atmosphere present. Standing up for something in which I believed, I was no longer a passive observer, but rather an active participant. I had always romantically looked at the social protests of the 1960s, wondering what it was like to participate, say, in the March on Washington handed out black arm bands for people to wear in protest, and answered any questions.

I sat at the tables several times before both events. In January, I was surprised to have to explain to a student where South Africa was located and what apartheid was. It kind of shocked me, and I was at a loss for words for a moment. "How can this person not know what is going on?" I thought.

People were pretty responsive in January, though. We handed out hundreds of information packets and some students would return to the table having made a decision. We were making a positive impact on campus, and the number of students who participated in the sit-in encouraged us. When people whom I hadn't expected to be interested came to the sit-in, I was sure the ball was rolling.

The feedback I got the second time we used the information tables was much different, however. Fewer people seemed interested. Students were "tired" of hearing about it. I sat ignored at the table outside of Phelps dining hall as people rushed past. The responded favorably — in our eyes anyway.

But there is only so much you can do, I discovered. You can't reach every last person — even at a small college like Hope. They make the decision whether or not to listen and be affected, whether or not to approach our information table and admit they know nothing about South Africa. You can't do too much about that — except keep trying.

Throughout the semester, I got the feeling from some students that one person's effort won't make a difference. What does a sit-in do? How will planting crosses in the Pine Grove change anything? How will Hope College divesting a small amount change anything in South Africa? Those are tough questions, and many times I'm just as doubtful as the others. But I think the late Robert F. Kennedy touched upon that best in 1966 in, fittingly enough, Capetown, South Africa.

Let no one be discouraged, he said, by believing there is nothing one person can do about the world's problems.

"Each time a man stands up for an ideal, or acts to improve the lot of others, or strikes out against injustice, he sends a tiny ripple of hope, and crossing each other from a million different centers of energy and daring, those ripples build a current which can sweep down the mightiest walls of oppression and resistance." ✎

Book vs. movie

Setting the record right

by Eva D. Folkert

"That movie wasn't nearly as good as the book. I mean, they left out some of the best parts and changed so many episodes. You're just going to have to read the book. It was much better than the movie."

How many times have we heard that familiar discourse at the exit gate of neighborhood theatres or the generic, cattle-herd moviehouses in malls. For whenever a movie is based on a book, the relative question of whether a film can equal the printed volume is always inevitable; the question of which is the better medium is bound to be asked.

But the comparison between the paper page and celluloid strip might not be a fair one. A film does something very different from a book. The 35-millimeter medium has its limitations, especially with a character's inner feelings, and 99 percent of the book-to-movie cases just cannot render an exact equivalent. Not even a mass-produced mini-series lasting until 1987 could do justice to a 1,000-page "James-Michener-style" novel.

What a book-reader looks forward to as a moviegoer is the vivification of a book no printed page could ever impart. That's the obvious reason for converting a good book to a movie, said Stephen Hemenway, professor of English. A movie merely vivifies a book.

"But the question we should ask is not whether the movie equals the book, but whether the movie was fair to the book," noted Hemenway. "We should ask, did the movie pick up on the book's themes, messages, and values?"

Since most people are left with a lasting impression of a movie rather than a book, and since more people have seen the movie than read the book, it would only seem fair to set the record right and let the viewer know that the author wrote some things differently. In most cases, whatever Hollywood wants, Hollywood gets.

Two of the movie-season's top money-grossers, "The Color Purple" and "Out of Africa," were both based on books of the same name. Purple the Movie was based on the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel by Alice Walker; Africa the Movie was adapted to the screen from Out of Africa, by Karen Blixen (the movie and book's heroine) and other biographical sources including Karen Blixen's letters to her brother, Thomas.

Yet while both movies achieved financial success, both did not receive accolades from the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences. It's probably common knowledge by now that "The Color Purple" captured nary a golden bronzed Oscar at the Academy Awards' evening of sequins and thank-yous, putting it into a tie with "The Turning Point" in 1977, also nominated 11 times, as the biggest losers in the Awards' 58-year history. "Out of Africa," on the other hand, another 11-time nominee, copped seven awards including best picture and best director.

The books have also found new popularity because of the success their based-on movies have achieved. According to The Chronicle of Higher Education, The Color Purple and "The comparison between the paper page and celluloid strip might not be a fair one. A film does something very different from a book."

Out of Africa rank one and two as the most popular books on college campuses today. Both books also experienced a revival on recent Best Seller lists.

But, putting reel-to-reel and publishing kudos aside, did these movies do justice to the books they were based on? Did they both fall into that 99 percentile?

According to Hemenway and Neal Sobania, Hope's director of international education, the answers are a semi-no and yes.

Purple the Book is written in an unconventional epistolary form. Celie (the main character) addressed most of her letters to God in a story of the young black woman's struggle with tough predicaments, domineering men, and awareness of self-worth.

So, first of all, an immediate difficulty arises from changing letters into dialogue and characterization. There's only so much voice-over a viewer will pay attention to.

But director Steven Spielberg was criticized for fabricating Purple the Movie into a fairy tale right out of a Walt Disney-style Cinderella and Ugly Duckling and inserting comic relief whenever the film got too somber. Most of all, many critics said, Purple the Movie lacked any of the serious political and social commentaries the book made.

"However I thought 'The Color Purple,' the movie, did a decent job of conveying Walker's feeling of family, suffering, and surviving," said Hemenway, who taught Black Literature last semester and is also an avid moviegoer. "I'm satisfied with the way the values and themes of the book were brought out in the film. Alice Walker seemed pretty pleased. I've not found any direct criticism from her about the film."

"I still feel that even though the film is a toned-down version of the book, it (the movie) has reached far more people because of the medium. I think that many white people have been given a better appreciation of the extended black family, especially among the women."

Still, glaring differences prevail.

Shug, the blues singer, is not the daughter of a minister in Purple the Book. This added storyline in Purple the Movie filled in the drama Hollywood and Spielberg deemed necessary for the film. The singing conflict between the Sunday choir's hymns and the juke joint's secular music is the sensational making of a Hollywood plug-in, not the making of Walker's book.

And, toward the end of the movie, a suddenly well-to-do Celie sits on a train, leisurely saunters to the caboose and throws chocolate coins to a frantically running child. "It's a scene that is not in the book and a scene that is definitely not needed. It's very distracting because it shows no transition to Celie's wealth," said Hemenway.

Through these and other made-up scenes, it seemed Spielberg was beating the viewer over the head with sentimental prodding, critics insisted.

But, one of the most important differences between the film and novel is the ending, reconciling reunion between Celie and her husband, Mister, a reunion that the book had, but the movie did not. In Purple the Book, Mister even helps in Celie's Unisex Pants Store by sewing, something the viewer would never have seen him lower himself to in Purple the Movie.

For "The Color Purple," whatever Hollywood wanted, Hollywood inserted.

Don't expect the love story of Karen Blixen and Denys Finch Hatton which was portrayed by Meryl Streep and Robert Redford in Africa the Movie, to be in Africa the Book. It's not there.

"The book does not dwell on, nor relate, nor in anyway highlight the relationship between Denys Finch Hatton and Karen Blixen (the movie's main characters)," said Sobania who lived in Karen, Kenya. Karen is a suburb of Nairobi named for Karen Blixen located where her farm was established. Sobania was also attached to the British Institute of Eastern Africa while in Kenya. Part of the Institute is the old McMillan estate, the governor and good friend during Blixen's stay.

"The opening line of the book and the movie is 'I had a farm in Africa.' That sets the tone for the book but not the movie. It would have been better if the movie opened, 'I met a man in Africa.'"

Africa the Book dwells on the African people instead and tells of Blixen's experiences as a single woman trying to manage a coffee plantation in the 1920s, a colonial period in eastern Africa. The book sketches personal details about the Africans' lives and personalities, much more than it talks about any European. Much, much more. In fact, Hatton is only mentioned sparingly in the book — not until half way through the book, in fact — and from the language Blixen used about him, it would be easy to conclude their relationship was nothing more than platonic.

The real love story of Africa the Book was Blixen's endearment of the African land and people. While she has been accused of being a racist and her books repugnant by today's Kenyans, she was considered pro-African by the European colonists of her day for her opposition of labor laws.

Blixen had a great understanding of the
Continued on page 24

ALUMNI NEWS

alumni beat

by Tom Renner '67
Director of College Relations

In past issues of news from Hope College, this space has been filled with the jottings of Vern Schipper '51 who has served as your Alumni Director with distinction.

His work since 1972 has resulted in a strengthened alumni program. His tireless work has laid a solid foundation for the future.

Over the past year, while our staff crisscrossed the nation on behalf of The Campaign for Hope College, it became apparent that the college needs to be more visible outside western Michigan. We intend to respond to this need beginning July 1 when our staff will become more involved in a regionalized approach to development and college relations. Vern has been asked to become a member of this new organization.

David Van Dyke '84 Vern Schipper '51

Our new alumni director is David Van Dyke of the Class of 1984. Dave joined the Hope staff last summer to work on The Campaign for Hope. Since then he has worked with many of you in organizing regional events for the Campaign. This fall, in addition to his new duties, he will be coordinating the all-alumni appeal for the Campaign.

Hope College is at an important juncture in her history. Your support of your alma mater is recognized as among the best of any college in the nation. We are confident that this change in staff responsibilities will result in our being able to serve you better.

Recently, a group of current Hope College students have reorganized and reactivated the Centurian fraternity, Alpha Theta Xi, which has been dormant since 1981. The new Centurians, who are mainly from the class of '88 and '89, received permission from the Inter-Fraternity Council in April to begin making plans for active participation in the Hope community as a full-fledged Greek society, beginning with the fall of 1986.

The Centurian fraternity was established in 1966 but due to declining membership, the Cents last active year was 1981, at which time they were a co-ed organization. The new Centurians, however, will keep their status as an all-male fraternity and hope to gain support from the college community and interest from incoming students, while gaining a respectable standing among existing Greek organizations. The emphasis of the fraternity's activity will be on service projects throughout Hope and Holland. At the 1986 Homecoming, the current members will join in the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the first Centurian graduating class.

Any interested alumni may contact either Greg Keith '88, 616-375-9339, or Chuck Alex '88, 616-396-2144 regarding information on homecoming activities or to express support for the new Centurian fraternity.

The Arcadian Fraternity is planning a 40th anniversary celebration during Homecoming weekend, Oct. 10-12. A mailing will be sent to members later this summer, according to Gerard Van Heest '49.

class notes

News and information for class notes, marriages, births and deaths are compiled for news from Hope College by Eva D. Folkert of the Office of College Relations. The deadline for the next issue is July 21.

20's

Ralph Meima '24 and his wife Grace celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in 1985. Among the 50 people in attendance at the celebration was their first great-grandchild.

Theodore Eggebaggars '26 is the chairperson of the local Commission on Aging in Colchester, Conn. He is also the vice-chairperson of the Colchester Housing Authority and a member of the advisory council of the Connecticut Area Agency on Aging. Theodore still provides pulpit supply for area churches and talks about his 35 years as a missionary in India.

Elliot Weier '26 is a professor-emeritus of cytology at the University of California in Davis. He still teaches part-time.

Alonzo Wierenga '26 recently completed a book on the history of Hope Reformed Church in South Haven, Mich.

John Mulder '28 and his wife Nella DeHaan '33 will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in June.

Dirk Mouw '29 is the recipient of the West Central (Mich.) Hospital Council's Distinguished Service in Health Care Award. The award was given for his outstanding record of personal dedication to his patients, community, and profession.

Charles '29 and Henrietta Oudemool '29 Rodstrom celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Nov. 26, 1985.

30's

Elizabeth Smith '31 Becker was a member of the Hope College Presidents' Home restoration committee.

Mildred Schuppert '31 recently celebrated 35 years as the organist at Western Theological Seminary.

James Nettinga '34 is a senior pastor to all the retirees, ministers, widows, widowers, and missionaries of the Reformed Church in America in the California and Arizona area.

James DeWeerd '36 is the Anson L. Clark professor-emeritus of urology and a urology consultant at the Mayo Medical School in Rochester, Minn.

George Douma '36 is a visiting pastor during the winter at Moorings Presbyterian Church in Naples, Fla.

Lois VanderMeulen '36 Ellert is a member of the U.S. Masters Swimming Association and competes in regional and national meets. In July, she plans to attend the international meet in Tokyo, Japan.

William Gaston '36 has retired from the ministry after 46 years of service.

Vera Damstra '36 Hayden is a tutor at the Trinity River Mission in Dallas, Tx.

Dorothy Kleis '36 Hume is a secretary for Edward Helbing, M.D. in Holland.

Sander Kleis '36 is a professor-emeritus of philosophy at Anderson (Ind.) College.

Gilbert Plasman '36 retired in July 1985 after 45 years in dentistry.

Alice Engelsman '36 Redeker is the sales office manager for Century 21 in Ho-Ho-Kus, N.J.

Lester VanTanenhove '36 is the president of the National Foundation of Wheelchair Tennis.

William Welmers '36 is a professor-emeritus of Old Testament at the University of California—Los Angeles.

Willard Westveer '36 is the president of the Scientists' Society of Southwest Florida.

Lester Wolterink '36 is a professor-emeritus of physiology for Michigan State University.

Correction: Richard '37 and Beatrice Boot '37 Smith have retired after 45 years of mission service and live in Duarte, Calif.

Andrew Nyboer '39 has contributed an endowed scholarship in the name of his father, John, to the college. The unique scholarship is intended for any worthy student but, since his father was a long-time member of the Hope custodial staff, the student will participate in a custodial work program as part of the scholarship.

40's

Dean Dykstra '40 retired from First Church of Schenectady, N.Y. in May after 43 years in the ministry. Dean is presently the minister of Chapel-by-the-Sea, a seasonal interdenominational church in Captiva, Fla.

Eloise Boynton '41 Bosch was conferred a Doctor of Humane Letters honorary degree from Hope at this year's commencement. Her husband Donald was also presented with an honorary degree. Eloise and Donald

Tell us all

Class Notes: We will print your first and last name only for the sake of consistency in our publication. If you are a married female alumna, please tell us your maiden name. If you go by a different name, such as a middle name or nickname, we will print it instead of your first name if you like.

We cannot print information about your spouse if he or she is not a Hope grad. We only have room to print information regarding alumni.

Marriages: We cannot publish a marriage announcement until after the wedding has taken place. Please write us after you are married.

Tell us your name, class year, your spouse's name, whether your spouse is a Hope grad, the date of your marriage, city and state. Please try to notify us within one year of your marriage.

Births: Please notify us within a year of your child's birth. We don't have enough room to list your children over a year old.

Tell us your name, class year, your spouse's name, whether your spouse is a Hope grad, your child's name, birth-date, city and state.

Advanced Degrees: Tell us your name, class year, the name of your degree, name of the university, month and year. We like to publish them within one year after your graduation.

Deaths: Any information you have will be appreciated.

Sympathy To: Information about the death of a loved one in your immediate family will be published upon your request.

have co-authored a book entitled Seashells of Oman, and they are now working on a companion volume to Seashells.

Edwin Carlin '41 is a senior partner and chief executive officer of Baldwin & Cornelius Co. in Freeport, N.Y.

Francis Claerbout '41 is the owner of Fritz Claerbout Building Contractors of Connersville, Ind.

Jerome DeJong '41 is a winter associate pastor at Lake Worth (Fla.) Christian Reformed Church.

Kathryn Douma '41 DePue teaches Latin at Grand Ledge (Mich.) High School.

Thelma VanDyke '41 Dinkeloo is the owner of Artist Pianos Inc. in New York, N.Y.

Ellsworth Dykstra '41 is a minister-emeritus of The Christian Reformed Church.

Robert Dykstra '41 is chairman of the board of Light Metals Inc. in Wyoming, Mich.

Ruth Dame '41 Hage is the board secretary for Hage's Inc. of Muskegon, Mich.

Harold Hakken '41 has retired as secretary of stewardship development and director of chaplaincy services for The Reformed Church of America.

James Riekse '41 is the president of West Michigan Obstetrics and Gynecology P.C. of Grand Rapids. James is also the chief of staff at Butterworth Hospital.

Chester Toren '41 recently retired as the assistant vice president after 38 years with Zurich Insurance Co. of Schamburg, Ill.

Berend VanderWoude '41 is the supervisor of Lao Community Reformed Church of Eagan, Minn.

Nelvie Vanderbilt '41 VanderWoude teaches English as a second language to the Laotian, Vietnamese, and Cambodian refugees in Eagan, Minn.

Robert VanDyk '41 has retired as a colonel from the U.S. Army Dental Corps.

Bertha Vis '41 VanWyk retired last year from the Meiji Gakuin University in Tokyo where she taught English for 32 years.

Gordon VanWyk '41 retired last year from RCA mission work in Japan. He also taught American history at Meiji Gakuin University for 32 years.

Phillip Waalkes '41 is a professor of oncology at The

Do I want to go to college? What is it really like? Can I make the grade?

Get the answers at this Hope College on-campus program

Explororientation '86

Explore the possibilities of a college education through classroom experiences, extra-curricular activities, and free time. You will live in college housing on a college schedule and learn from college professors. Gaining a greater knowledge of yourself and your abilities, you will be better prepared to make a decision about college in the future.

Explororientation '86, for high school students who have completed their sophomore or junior year, begins Sunday evening, July 27 and continues through Saturday, August 2.

Morning classes are offered in various academic areas, career planning, campus life, and college admissions. Free time allows for trips to Lake Michigan, theatre productions, Christian Fellowship, and use of Hope's physical education center.

COST: Tuition, board, room for the week $135.

TRAVEL: Special arrangements being planned.

SEND THIS COUPON FOR COMPLETE INFORMATION

Please send me details about Explororientation '86

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

PHONE NO. _____ I will graduate from _____ high school in 1987 () 1988 ()

SEND TO JOHN HENSLER, ADMISSIONS, Hope College, Holland, Mich., 49423

Johns Hopkins University Medical School in Baltimore, Md.

Theodore Zandstra '41 is the pastor-emeritus of Trinity Reformed Church in Holland.

James Baar '42 retired from the ministry in April.

Max Boersma '46 is the treasurer of Transnational Motors Inc. of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Wilbur Brandli '46 is the pastor-emeritus of First Presbyterian Church in White Pigeon, Mich.

Carol Kile '46 Comeau recently retired as the principal library clerk at the Ramapo Catskill (N.Y.) library system.

Paul Fried '46 is a board member of the Holland Historical Society and is a member of the American Historical Association.

John Geary '46 retired as the district sales manager of Wyeth Laboratories in Philadelphia, Pa.

Agnes Finlaw '46 Green is the adult foster care licensing supervisor in northern Muskegon for the Mich. Dept. of Social Services.

Janet Huizenga '46 is a social work supervisor for Ramsey County (Minn.) Community Human Services Dept.

Miriam Siebert '46 Krum is a part-time secretary for an insurance company.

Elsie Parson '46 Lamb is a tutor at the Michigan Dunes Correctional Facility in Saugatuck, Mich. Elsie recently traveled to the Soviet Union and China with the Reformed Church in America.

Lawrence Lamb '46 is the president of Lamb, Inc. of Saugatuck, Mich.

Gerrit Levey '46 is a professor of chemistry and chairperson of the department at Berea (Ky.) College.

Laverne Huyser '46 Lieverse is a public health nurse for the Ottawa County Health Dept. in Holland.

Louise Edwards '46 Lowande is a school secretary for the Franklin Township Board of Education in Somerset, N.J.

Helga Sawitzky '46 Lucius is a missionary to American Indians for the Reformed Church in America in Phoenix, Ariz.

Helen Goff '46 Marcussen is an associate pastor for First United Methodist Church of Slidell, La.

Shirley Otteman '46 Outhouse is a secondary English teacher at Union Springs (N.Y.) Central School.

Dale Stoppels '46 is a judge of probate for Kent County in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dale VanLente '46 is the president of Grand Rapids-Holland Insurance Agency Inc.

Peter VanLierop '46 is the chaplain at Sheboygan (Wisc.) Memorial Hospital.

Neil VanZyl '46 is the owner of Neil VanZyl, Inc. General Contractors in Pacific City, Ore.

Alma Mater Would Love to Hear from You...

...by June 30—the last day to have your donation credited to Hope's 1985-86 Annual Fund. So show Alma Mater you remember her.

Please send your check to:

Annual Fund
Hope College
Holland, Michigan 49423

Contribute before June 30, 1986.

Elaine Bielefeld '46 Walchenbach is a consultant for the Michigan Synod Reformed Church Women and is on the Words of Hope Inc. board.

Ted Wisner '46 is the chief U.S. probation officer for the U.S. Courts in Grand Rapids, Mich.

50's

Marion Slinn '50 Glick teaches fifth grade in the Springfield (Oh.) school system and is an organist for St. Teresa's Roman Catholic Church.

Manford McGee '50 became the first American to be honored by the University of Bristol, England. He was invited to deliver the Watson-Williams Memorial Lecture there.

Robert VanEenanaam '50 spent five days in Chiapas, Mexico in February teaching Tzotzil paramedics some basic dental procedures. Bob is a dentist in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Alfred Arwe '51 is a partner of Oneco Chiropractic Office in Bradenton, Fla.

Albert Boers '51 is the director of financial development for Love, Inc. in Holland. He also retired this year from Traveler's Insurance Co. after 33 years.

Jack Boeskool '51 is a teacher for the Coopersville (Mich.) public schools.

Maurice Boon '51 is a teacher in the Grand Haven (Mich.) public schools.

Dolores Freyling '51 Campbell is a consultant for Doncaster Inc. for Rutherfordton, N.C.

Gene Campbell '51 is a partner in Mifax Co. of Holland.

Hugh Campbell '51 is a doctor of optometry in Portage, Mich.

Alice Gravenhorst '51 Cook is a secretary for Albion (Mich.) College.

Kenneth Decker '51 is the vice president of Ad-Soil Inc. in Chebanse, Ill.

Kenneth DeWitt '51 is the owner of DeWitt Construction in Grand Haven, Mich.

Norman DeWolfe '51 is a training specialist for Lee Memorial Hospital in Fort Myers, Fla.

Wayne Fieldhouse '51 represented Hope College at the inauguration of the new president of Earlham College.

Genevieve Seeley '51 Folkert is the secretary to the vice president of finance at Addison (Mich.) Products.

Jarold Groters '51 is a guidance counselor for Zeeland (Mich.) High School.

Ernest Haight '51 is a senior staff engineer for Martin Marietta Corp. in Orlando, Fla.

James Hakken '51 is a professor of history for Jackson (Mich.) Community College.

Robert Hartley '51 is the marketing manager for ITT, Federal Electric Corp. of Paramus, N.J.

Donald Hazekamp '51 is an associate professor of mathematics at Central Michigan University.

Alicia VanZoeren '51 Hermance is a music specialist for the Schenectady (N.Y.) city schools.

William Hinga '51 is the vice president of student affairs at Central College in Pella, Iowa.

Lynne VanWeelden '51 Ihrman is a president of the Advisory and Resource Center, serving people with disabilities in Holland.

Robert Japinga '51 retired as distribution manager of International Minerals and Chemicals Corp. and lives in Lakeland, Fla.

Lois England '51 Jellema is the editor of university publications for the University of Connecticut.

David Karsten '51 is a professor of theatre at Western Michigan University.

Phyllis Huenink '51 Kaylor is a teacher at Ray Kroc Middle School in San Diego, Calif.

Margaret Schoonveld '51 Kraay is a teacher for the Hudsonville (Mich.) public schools.

Constance Shilling '51 Kruse is the director of the Greenwood School Learning Center and Computer Program of South Holland, Ill.

Jan Lankenau '51 is a home-economics teacher for Marion (Ind.) High School.

Nancy Lee Corp '51 Marema is a clerk for the Berea (Ky.) College bookstore and is the choir director and organist for the Berea Baptist Church.

Kamala Korteling '51 Martin is a reading consultant for the Saline (Mich.) school system.

Jeannine DeBoer '51 Milne is a teacher for Rochester (N.Y.) Christian School.

Howard Newton '51 is the senior minister for Mary Taylor Memorial United Methodist Church in Milford, Conn.

Eleanore Short '51 Norden is an English teacher for the Ferris Girls' High School in Yokohama, Japan.

Ellen Lidston '51 Rieck is the chairperson of the department of social studies at Holland High School.

Joyce Post '51 Schipper is a teacher for Pella (Iowa) community schools.

Maralyn Ferris '51 Slikkers is an elementary teacher for Holland public schools.

Robert Stoppels '51 is the president of Robert Stoppels Insurance Agency Inc. in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Barbara VanNeuren '51 Taylor is a fourth grade teacher for Zeeland (Mich.) public schools.

Arlene Shoemaker '51 Timmerman is a teacher for the Hudsonville (Mich.) public schools.

Robert VanDyke '51 is a managing partner with Farmers Supply Co. in Escanaba, Mich.

Eloise Hinkamp '51 VanHeest is an administrative associate for Hope Church of Holland.

Donald VanIngen '51 is an assistant for administrative services for the Northville (Mich.) public schools.

William van't Hof '51 is a managing partner for Varnum, Riddering, Schmidt, and Howlett in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Robert Visscher '51 is the president of Grand Valley Gynecologists, P.C. in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dorothy Fennema '51 Voss is the executive director of the Zeeland (Mich.) Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Votaw '51 is the executive associate dean of East Tennessee State University in Johnson City.

Elmer Vrugink '51 is the dean for the McBain School of Business of Davenport College in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Joan Phillips '51 Walker is a staff registered nurse at Morristown (N.J.) Memorial Hospital.

Suzellen Roest '51 Webb is in investment and financial counseling for A.L. Williams Co. in Champaign, Ill.

Eleanor Robinson '51 Zoellner is a librarian for Pima Elementary School in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Donald Piersma '53 was honored at the state convention of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association for 10 years of service as the athletic director for Holland public schools.

Jack Boeriger '54 is the senior project director in fundraising-development for Jackson and Associates in Evergreen, Colo.

Robert Prins '54 has been named the 25th president of Iowa Wesleyan College in Mt. Pleasant.

James Van Hoeven '54 published his first issue of Perspectives: A Journal of Reformed Thought as editor in January. James is also the pastor of First Church in Albany, N.Y.

John Adams '56 is the senior minister at Christ Church United in Lowell, Mass.

Nancy Gaikema '56 Bedingfield is a substitute teacher for the Eastchester (N.Y.) public schools.

Robert Bedingfield '56 is the senior minister for the Reformed Church of Bronxville, N.Y.

Arthur Bieri '56 is a teacher for Lowell (Mich.) area schools.

Theodore Bosch '56 is a production control scheduler and planner for Donnelly Corp. of Holland.

Arie Brouwer '56 was featured in an interview in the Feb. 7 issue of Christianity Today. The interview, titled "Can Conservatives Find a Home in the National Council of Churches," deals primarily with Arie's views on theology and social issues.

Sally DeJonge '56 Byxhe is the business manager for Child and Family Services in Holland, Mich.

Thomas Carey '56 is the director of counseling at Holland High School.

Edwin Coon '56 is the minister at the First Presbyterian Church in Everett, Wash.

Chris Denny '56 Connaire is the director at Connaire and Co. of Cambridge, Mass.

Alyce DePree '56 is a lecturer at the University of Michigan and the English department chairperson of Greenhills School in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Jack DePree '56 is the director of the Marcum Conference Center at Miami (Oh.) University.

Robert DeYoung '56 is the senior manufacturing geometric specialist for General Electric in Cincinnati, Oh.

Mary Jane Adams '56 Dykema is the president of the Grand Haven Board of Education and a member of the board of trustees for the North Ottawa Community Hospital.

Eugene Erb '56 is the program manager at Verac, Inc. in Albuquerque, N.M.

Carl Failer '56 is the president of Lincoln Financial Group of Michigan in Grand Rapids.

Mari Howard '56 Gnade is a teacher of special education for the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of N.Y.

Barbara Grasman '56 Grootenhuis is a teacher of the gifted in the Danville (Ill.) school system.

Judith Kingma '56 Hazelton teaches English at Rogers High School in Wyoming, Mich.

Vernon Hoffman '56 is the senior minister for Hope Reformed Church in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Dean Hogeboom '56 teaches math at Oak Park (Ill.) and River Forest High School.

Sally Sieber '56 Honkanen is a charge nurse at Georgian East Extended Care in Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich.

Marcia Pasma '56 Huls is a third grade teacher for Light & Life Christian School in Escondido, Calif.

Janice Polhemus '56 Jessup is an associate broker for Mount Vernon Realty in Reston, Va.

Virginia Hartsema '56 Kraus is an elementary school teacher for Westfield (N.J.) public schools.

James Kremer '56 is an elementary school teacher for Grand Haven (Mich.) public schools.

Gerald Kruffy '56 is the audio/visual producer for Steelcase Inc. of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Gordon Laman '56 is a professor of practical theology and director of field education at Tokyo (Japan) Union Theological Seminary.

Milton Lubbers '56 is the owner and president of Pella Intermountain in West Jordan, Ut.

Gerard Marsh '56 is an auditor for the State of Michigan Dept. of Commerce, Financial Institutions Bureau.

Thomas McCall '56 is the president of McCalls and Associates.

Florence Parker '56 McGeoch is an instructor at Hocking Tech. College in Nelsonville, Ohio.

Jack Moermond '56 is a senior patent counselor for Dow Corning Corp. in Midland, Mich.

James Neevel '56 is the senior pastor for New Hackensack Reformed Church of Wappingers Falls, N.Y. He is also a member of the Hope College Board of Trustees and vice president of the RCA General Synod.

Barbara Jeffrey '56 Neevel is a teacher aide for the Wappingers (N.Y.) school system.

Eileen Mugg '56 Nordstrom is a teacher for the Hamilton (Mich.) public schools.

Richard Ortquist '56 is a professor of history and chairperson of the department at Wittenberg University of Springfield, Ohio. He has also been presented with

Commencement day

Continued from page 3

Your Shoes Off," using Joshua 5:10-15 as his text ("Then Joshua fell facedown to the ground in reverence, and asked him, 'What message does my Lord have for his servant?' The commander of the Lord's army replied, 'Take off your sandals, for the place where you are standing is holy.' And Joshua did so.")

Comparing the seniors' college years to the journey of the Israelites, Kuyten noted both groups were, and are, ready to enter the Promised Land, conquer the new land given to them, yet while remembering the hardships and Red-Sea miracles behind them.

"As the Jews came out of the desert, they were no longer a desert people. Now they were to become carpenters, tradesmen, mothers, fathers, teachers, doctors. As they faced the future, the manna from heaven stopped . . . But God says in Hebrews 'I will never leave you nor forsake you.' But how can you be sure?"

In pursuing a humble life lived for Jesus Christ, a person can be sure of God's presence, Kuyten said.

"When Jesus Christ rose on the third day, all the world became his property and holy land. The place on which you stand is holy. I stand first of all for Jesus Christ, therefore I take off my shoes . . . I pray that your reply will be 'Yes, I will remember. I will take off my shoes and confess that where I am standing belongs, not to Japan, not to Europe, but to Jesus Christ. And making him Lord will make you a successful person.'" the Distinguished Service Award by the Ohio Academy of History.

Nancy Lubben '56 Plantenga is a kindergarten teacher for the Spring Lake (Mich.) public schools.

Robert Pluister '56 is the president and owner of Custom Countertops of Boyne, Mich.

Evon Dalman '56 Pluister is a paraprofessional tutor for the Boyne City (Mich.) Elementary School.

Jerrald Redeker '56 is the chairman of the board, president, and C.E.O. for Old Kent Bank of Holland, Mich.

Suzie VanSlageren '56 Ross is a teacher for Clover Park High School in Tacoma, Wash.

Glenncey Kleis '56 Russcher is teaching remedial reading at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo.

Linda Vogel '56 Ryon is a registered nurse and nursing educator for Phoenix (Ariz.) General Hospital.

Nell Salm '56 is a medical social worker for the Chelsea (Mass.) Health Center.

Irma Derks '56 Shull is the secretary for employee relations at the Portage (Mich.) public schools.

Marilyn Westrate '56 Skold is co-owner of The Sport Shop in Beulah, Mich.

John Spaulding '56 is the minister at Jefferson (La.) Presbyterian Church.

Francis Riggs '56 Spencer is a special education teacher at Brighton (N.Y.) central schools.

Elaine Vrugink '56 Spieldenner is the secretary to the media services director of the Portage (Mich.) public schools.

Charmaine VanderMyde '56 Stegenga is an English teacher at Holland High School.

Henry Stegenga '56 is a minister at Peace Reformed Church in Zeeland, Mich.

Richard TenHaken '56 is the chief executive officer for the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of N.Y.

Thomas TenHoeven '56 is the president of Oakton Community College in Des Plaines, Ill.

Marcia Veldman '56 Thompson has been singing with the Ann Arbor Cantata Singers for 24 years and is a member of the board of directors for Friends of the University of Michigan Hospitals.

Warren VandenBosch '56 is a teacher for the Plymouth-Canton (Mich.) school district.

Agnes Debeer '56 VanderAarde has been working in India with her medical missionary husband, Stanley '53, since 1961.

Karl VanderLaan '56 is the owner and president of V.S.S. & Associates, a computer software company in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Lyle VanderWerff '56 delivered the 15th annual Baker Mission Lectures at the Reformed Bible College in Grand Rapids, Mich. Lyle is a professor of religion at Northwestern College in Orange City, Iowa.

Marianne Wierks '56 Van Eenenaam is a staff writer for the Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle.

Meryl Gowens '56 VanFarowe is a math teacher for Johnston (Iowa) Community High School.

Marie Hoekman '56 VanGilder is a teacher for Sierra Christian School in Sparks, Nev.

Mary Burggraaff '56 VanderKooy is a secretary-receptionist for Glass Enterprise of Holland.

Julia Herrick '56 White was the 1986 winner of the State Street Press competition. Her poetry book, Friends from the Other Side, will be published this year.

Henry Young '56 is a systems analyst for International Minerals in Mundelein, Ill.

Marlin VanderWilt '57 is the vice-moderator for the General Programs Council for the Reformed Church in America.

Roger Borr '58 was honored at the state convention of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association for 15 years of service as the athletic director for West Ottawa public schools.

Ray DeDoe '58 is the vice-moderator for the church planning and development division of the General Programs Council for the Reformed Church in America.

John Padgett '58 was installed as pastor of congregational care and discipleship at Fair Haven Reformed Church in Jenison, Mich.

Richard VanderAarde '58 was the president of Great Toll Ministerial Association during 1984-85. He presently is the chairperson of the Board of Directors of Cascade County's Chapter of the American Red Cross in Great Falls, Mont.

Janet Baird '58 Weisinger is the moderator for the world mission division of the General Programs Council of the Reformed Church in America.

Vern Zuverink '58 was honored at the state convention of the Michigan Interscholastic Administrators Association for 15 years of service as the athletic director for the Grand Haven public schools.

Peter DeJong '59 was named to the Heins-Johnson Endowed Chair of Biology at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Paul Northuis '59 has been named the director of operations for the Forest Hills (Mich.) school system.

Mar Les Exo '59 Williams has retired from the Traverse City public schools.

60's

Douglas Neckers '60 was named Faculty Member of the Year by Bowling Green State University's chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa national leadership honor society. Doug teaches chemistry at BGSU.

Marjorie Wood '60 Parliment coaches track at Clarkstown Junior High in New City, N.Y.

Thomas Aardema '61 is an advisory industry specialist for IBM in Kalamazoo, Mich.

James Betke '61 is a senior partner of McDermott, Will, & Emery in Chicago, Ill.

Ron Beyer '61 is the senior pastor of Third Reformed Church in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Katherine Reynolds '61 Bitner is in a doctoral program of American studies at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

Sandra Ekster '61 Bixel is the director of patient care at the South Haven (Mich.) Area Hospice.

George Boerigter '61 is the vice president of sales and marketing for Eggers Industries in Two Rivers, Wis.

James Bolthouse '61 is the director of accounting for the state of Michigan.

Sharon Crossman '61 Bolthouse is the owner/director of Sunshine House Child Development Center in Lansing, Mich.

Wesley Bonzelaar '61 is the principal for the Jenison (Mich.) public schools.

John Bos '61 is the associate director of Christ for the World, Inc. in Orlando, Fla.

Thomas Bos '61 is the president of Alvin D. Bos Vending Co. in Holland.

Thomas Bos '61 is the director of development, church, and community relations at Western Theological Seminary.

Evelyn Hollander '61 Bosman is a counselor for Tri-Cities Ministries Counseling Services in Grand Haven, Mich.

Phyllis Prins '61 Brown is a licensed practical nurse for Holland Family Medicine.

Bonnie Beyers '61 Bruins is a kindergarten teacher for Paradise Valley (Ariz.) Christian School.

Cal Bruins '61 is the principal of Arcadia High School in Phoenix, Ariz.

Allen Buurma '61 is the pastor of Hillsborough Reformed Church in Millstone, N.J.

Joan Clayton '61 is a teacher for the Philadelphia city schools.

James Combs '61 is an instructor for Colon (Mich.) community schools.

James Cook '61 is th chief pharmacist for Walgreen Pharmacy in Bradenton, Fla.

Judith VanLeeuwen '61 Cook is a seventh grade teacher for S.S. Harlee Middle School in Bradenton, Fla.

Richard Cook '61 is the director of epidemiology for Dow Chemical in Midland, Mich.

Marilyn Rocks '61 Cox is a teacher/consultant for the learning disabled in the Muskegon (Mich.) public schools.

Gale Damhof '61 is a teacher and athletic director for McBain (Mich.) High School.

Ruth VanderMeulen '61 Davis is the director of marketing and community relations for Mt. San Antonia Gardens Congregational Homes in Pomona, Calif.

Norma DeBoer '61 is a language arts teacher for the Wyoming (Mich.) public schools.

Linda Gordon '61 DenUyl is the executive secretary for First United Methodist Church in Holland.

Phyliss Smith '61 DenUyl is a teacher of the learning disabled for the Port Huron (Mich.) school district.

Mary Ann Hoksbergen '61 DeVries is a substitute teacher for the Orange (Calif.) Unified school district.

Mark DeWitt '61 is the pastor for Maplewood Reformed Church in Holland.

Elizabeth Wichers '61 DuMez is a senior staff associate of adjudication for the National Association of Social Workers in Silver Springs, Md.

Priscilla Estell '61 is a volunteer librarian for Christ Memorial Reformed Church in Holland.

Judith Eastman '61 Faber is the youth and education director at First United Methodist Church of Holland.

Gail Friesema '61 Farnham is an elementary supervisor for Northwestern Lehigh school district in New Tripoli, Penn.

Peter Geitner '61 is the executive director for Oswego County Opportunitites, Inc. in Fulton, N.Y.

Sharon Smith '61 Hall is a directress for the Countryside Montessori School in Largo, Fla.

Bruce Hoffman '61 is the senior pastor for Second Reformed Church in Wyckoff, N.J.

Ruth Ausema '61 Hofmeyer is a fifth grade teacher for the Holland public schools.

Terry Hoffmeyer '61 is the Holland city manager.

Richard Jaarsma '61 is a professor for William Patterson College and owns and operates Young World Day School in Mahwah, N.J.

Wayne Jooisse '61 is the pastor for Emmanuel Reformed Church in Whitby, Ontario.

Nancy Plewes '61 Kehoe is a planning consultant for United Way of Kent County in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mary Decker '61 Klaaren is the minister of South Congregational Church in Middleton, Conn.

Merlin Kleinhuisen '61 is dentist in Willmar, Minn.

Sandra Kooistra '61 is a financial planner for Financial Planning Corp. in Aurora, Colo.

Fred Kruithof '61 is the senior minister for Hope Reformed Church in South Haven, Mich.

Louise Marsilje '61 Leestma is the executive vice president of MTA Travel in Chicago, Ill.

Joyce Tysen '61 Magee is a Reformed Church missionary in Japan.

Clark Matthews '61 is a teacher for the Grandville (Mich.) public schools.

Klaas Meyer '61 is the director of quality assurance for Heath/ZDS in St. Joseph, Mich.

Jack Millard '61 is the pastor of Johnstown (N.Y.) Reformed Church.

Sharon Neste '61 is the director of curriculum for Flossmoor (Ill.) school district.

Richard Oudersluis '61 is the executive vice president of operation for Ferro B.V. in the Netherlands.

Marilyn Ferris '61 Pickle is an elementary teacher for Muskegon (Mich.) public schools.

Dan Ritsema '61 is the director of instrumental music for the Zeeland (Mich.) public schools. He has been the band director for 16 years and the Zeeland Band was rated No. 1 in division competition this year.

Calvin Rynbrandt '61 is the minister for Community Reformed Church in Holland.

Arlene Cizek '61 Schoon is a first grade teacher for F.H. Hammond Elementary School in Munster, Ind.

Constance Kregar '61 Scott is the church choir director for Grace United Methodist Church in Essex Junction, Vt.

Jane Wezeman '61 Smith is a secretary for Bruin Graphics in Palos Heights, Ill.

Robert Smoes '61 is an assistant biology professor for Towson (Md.) State University.

Ronald Snyder '61 is the maternal and child health coordinator for Bellingham-Whatcom (Wash.) Health Dept.

Barbara Amos '61 Stegink is a legal assistant for Hann, Persinger, & Farmer in Holland.

Carol Joelson '61 Sytsma is a "sometime author" of youth Bible studies and scripts for musicals, living in Renton, Wash.

Hope College Chair by Hitchcock

A magnificent, hand-woven rush seat arm chair for your living room, office or den. Exquisitely decorated in gold on a rich black background, the chair offers a view of Hope College, executed by hand in pastel shades through a combination of traditional Hitchcock stenciling and brushwork.

Priced at $295 f.o.b. East Brunswick, N.J., your chair will be finished with your name and class inscribed in gold on the back. Freight charges average about $35. in the continental U.S. Special arrangements must be made for shipment abroad.

Please make check payable to "Hitchcock College Chairs," and allow ten to twelve weeks for delivery.

Hitchcock College Chairs
P.O. Box 812
East Brunswick, NJ 08816

I enclose $_____ for _____ Hope College chair(s) at $295 each. (N.J. residents, 6% Sales Tax). I understand I will pay the shipping charge upon delivery, or remit $35 with an order.

I prefer to charge my chair(s) to my _____ Master Charge or _____ VISA

Account No. _____ Expiration Date _____
 Please inscribe the following name and class. (Please type or print.)

NAME _____ CLASS _____

Ship to _____ Name _____ Phone _____

Address _____

Teach me

Continued from page 10

hopes attendance will continue growing.

As Agheana sees it, Hope's involvement in teaching foreign languages in the community is just beginning to grow too. Future plans include expanding instruction to junior and senior high school levels. The idea of a summer language camp has been tossed about too.

"And there is also a possibility of offering language classes to the corporate sector as well," explains Agheana. That's a benefit that eastern and western corporations have offered their employees for years, but where midwestern companies are lacking.

Somehow, the image of men and women in navy blue suits, huddled in a corner of a musty gym playing hang-man is a bit difficult to grasp but perhaps worth it in the interest of international relations.

But would their scores be higher?

Richard Taubald '61 is the director of the Center for Continuing Education at Montclair State College in N.J.

Nancy Mulder '61 Timmer is the sales coordinator for Dynamic Personnel in Holland.

Mary Harmeling '61 Toppen is an elementary teacher for Holland public schools.

Adina Yonan '61 VanBuren is a French teacher for Avery Cooney School in Downers Grove, Ill.

Wallace VanBuren '61 works for VanBuren Construction in Westmont, Ill.

Eleanor Verburg '61 VanDyke is the preschool director for Smiling Place in Holland.

Betty Vicha '61 VanWyk is the director of communications for Oak Park-River Forest (Ill.) school district.

John Vanden Burg '61 is an account executive for Prudential-Bache in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Evonne Luttrell '61 VanderHeuvel is an English teacher and yearbook advisor for the Port Huron (Mich.) school district.

Barbara Vander Molen '61 is a teacher for the Magnolia school district in Anaheim, Cal.

Elmer Veldheer '61 is a fifth grade teacher for Grandville (Mich.) public schools.

Edward Veldhuizen '61 is the senior pastor for First Reformed Church in Pella, Iowa.

Carl Vermeulen '61 is an associate biology professor for the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

Mary Wiersma '61 Vermeulen is the student services coordinator for the JoDavies-Carroll Area Vocational Center in Elizabeth, Ill.

Lorraine Murray '61 Wagley is co-owner of Amper-sand Antiques in Dayton, Ohio.

Margery Kempers '61 Wiegink is the president, owner/broker of House Hunters Inc. in Chapel Hill, N.C.

Ronald Wiegink '61 is a professor of English at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

David Wilkins '61 is a professor of French at the College of Wooster, Ohio.

Gretta Bouman '61 Xander is a substitute teacher for the International School in South Limburg, the Netherlands.

Helene Bosch '61 Zmyghuizen is working on her master's degree in special reading at Western Michigan University.

Marcia Meengs '63 Bakker is the assistant county attorney in Suffolk County, N.Y.

Gene Wabeke '63 was a tenor soloist in Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus" and Bach's "St. Matthew's Passion" with the Texas Bach Choir. Gene also performed the role of Paul in "Carnival" for the San Antonio Little Theatre.

Joan Loweke '65 Campbell has received a Rockefeller Grant for study in France this summer. Joan teaches French and Spanish at Blacksburg (Va.) High School.

Suzanne Sather '65 is an associate professor of speech and theatre at Midland Lutheran College in Fremont, Neb.

Arlene Anderson '66 is an attorney/manager of claims investigations and recovery for Blue Cross and Blue Shield in Indianapolis, Ind.

Donald Ast '66 is an advisory programmer for IBM Corp., Federal System Division in Nassau Bay, Tx.

Danny Bao '66 is a physician in Carmel, Ind.

William Barger '66 is a pastor for First Presbyterian Church in Harlan, Ky.

Julie Postmus '66 Berens is a math and German teacher for South Lyon (Mich.) High School.

James Bishop '66 is an administrative accountant for Bishop and Burk, C.P.A. in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Jane Jappinga '66 Bolt is in the custom stain glass window business in Hartland, Wis.

John Buteyn '66 was elected to the Board of Plano Independent School District in Plano, Tx. with 56 percent of the votes in a three-way race. John is the senior pastor of the Reformed Church in Plano.

Charlye Yeager '66 Chiles is a secretary for San Diego (Calif.) Gas & Electric Co.

William Cook '66 is the vice president and regional loan manager for Central Trust Co. of Rochester, N.Y.

Martha Campbell '66 Costos is a personnel manager for Bernhard Associates in Dallas, Tx.

Carol Borst '66 Cousineau is an enrichment coordinator for the Grand Haven (Mich.) and Fruitport public schools.

Neil DeBoer '66 is a partner with DeLong & Co., C.P.A. in Holland.

Dennis Dehm '66 is the manager of program control space shuttle projects for Allied/Bendix Aerospace Guidance Systems Division in Teterboro, N.J.

Janice DeJong '66 is a biologist for the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture in Ames, Iowa.

Graham Duryee '66 is the vice president of Timber Brook Realty, Inc. of Holland.

Elmer Edman '66 is an administrative manager for Laventhol & Horwath in Chicago.

Patricia Elzerman '66 Eenigenburg is the director of christian youth education for Second Reformed Church in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Ardyce Elmore '66 is a mathematics teacher for Ravena, Coeymans, Selkirk (N.Y.) school district.

Robert Engelsman '66 is a marketing sales manager for Allstate Insurance Co. in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Richard Feldman '66 is a professor of industrial engineering at Texas A&M University.

Antarctic expedition

Continued from page 11

"But it's a real effort to stay warm as well as do the work. It's very physically demanding working in the wind and cold while trying to carry around the rocks. We were out eight hours a day or longer, and we couldn't just sit down to rest because it was too cold. I ran two miles a day before the trip, and without that daily exercise I would have been in real trouble. Even with it, the work was exhausting."

In Antarctica, it seems everything is doubled — double the food, double the clothing, double the energy expended.

While waiting for the weather to clear again before flying to Beardmore, coastal sightseeing was added to the "tourists'" agenda. Snow caves displayed the majesty of gleaming stalagmites and stalactites made of sparkling ice. Wildlife awareness was presented by a few stray Emperor penguins and cuddly Weddell seals who had chewed their way through the ice to give birth and gazed at their observers with those black marble eyes that stare holes through a sentimental heart.

"But it's actually a little dangerous to walk around the seals, not because they'll attack — they're really quite tame — but because the holes they've chewed open might be concealed by snow and could easily give way if they're not frozen over."

Finally at Beardmore Camp and their field position, the dingy scenery of McMurdo changed to inland crisp white brightness, azure skies, and treeless miles as only glorious mountains cropped the inland landscape.

Ninety-eight percent of the Antarctic continent is covered by ice and snow, and since digging to organic matter is impossible, Smoot and crew simply went to the two percent where exposed rock laid. The petrified peat was picked from hummocks, exposed mounds of rock believed to be from an ancient stream bed. By the end of a day, the scientific team had broken up so much fossil rock that their burlap bags bulged to capacity and were nearly impossible to carry.

Day in, day out, this went on for four straight weeks. But end of the day exhaustion was not always rewarded with rest.

Besides vigorous, not to mention bulky-attired games of volleyball, some naval personnel at Beardmore had set up a three-hole golf course, giving the camp that country-club look but without green fees. Driving with the one wood was a little stunted since the ball stuck instead of bounced, every two putts counted as one, and the footprints around the hole could be smoothed over with a hand. Winter rules were definitely in effect at the Beardmore Golf Course.

Although Smoot got back to the States in November, it took her rocks six months to make the trip. Eleven tons of fossil plants were just too much to pack for a flight North. The sea ice needed to melt around McMurdo so a Naval ice-breaker could cut its way through with a cargo ship in-tow. The rocks were shipped to California, then freighted to Ohio.

The young scientist's research will now commence with the description and classification of the fossils, a study that will require another couple years and some Hope biology student involvement, probably another NSF grant and trip to Antarctica. Now, like paleobotany, the Antarctic topic has become near and dear to Smoot's heart. Just give her a slide projector and a couple hours, and she'll be glad to expound the finer details of frigid living—even in the summer.

"They say there is no gray area in a person's like or dislike for Antarctica. You either hate it or love it. I guess I'm part of the half who loved it. I'd go back in a minute." ✎

Carl Flowerday '66 is the director of product development for Prince Corp. of Holland.

Richard Barnes '66 is a dentist in Winchester, Va.

Patricia Gabbey '66 Gensel is an associate biology professor at the University of North Carolina.

David Grissen '66 is a European representative for The Navigators evangelism group.

John Hahnfeld '66 is the director of computer operations and systems at Harvard University Graduate School of Education.

Richard Hallock '66 is the director of personnel programs for IBM Europe in France.

Philip Harmelink '66 is a professor of accounting at the University of New Orleans.

Gretchen Heneveld '66 is running a pre-school in Truckee, Calif.

David Heusinkveld '66 is a senior financial analyst for Mobil Chemical Co. Films Division in Pittsford, N.Y.

Leslie Clark '66 Hirsch is a Suzuki violin instructor in Aptos, Calif.

Mary Leetsma '66 Houser is an English and music teacher for the Saddleback Valley school district in Mission Viejo, Calif.

Anita Joeckel '66 is a children's librarian for the Pearl River (N.Y.) Public Library.

Lynn Rundle '66 Kallmann is a social worker for the Valley View school district in Bolingbrook, Ill.

John Knapp '66 is a professor of psychology at Eastern Michigan University.

Richard Koster '66 is an associate minister for First Presbyterian Church in Waynesboro, Va.

Thelma Leenhouts '66 is the special assistant to the assistant secretary of the U.S. Dept. of Education in Washington, D.C.

Kathryn Janssen '66 Leggatt is a teacher at Holland High School.

Mark Lemmenes '66 is the senior pastor of El Dorado Park Community Church in Long Beach, Calif.

Sharon Dykstra '66 Long is a third grade elementary teacher for the Leesville (La.) school district.

Margaret Diephuis '66 Mackay is a math lab instructor for Lake Michigan College in Benton Harbor, Mich.

Norman Madsen '66 has authored a devotional book entitled St. Paul: The Apostle and His Letters. Norman is an associate professor religious studies at McKendree College.

Don McCow '66 is a public affairs specialist in media relations for the U.S. Army Material Command in Alexandria, Va.

Albert McGeehan '66 is a teacher for the Holland public schools.

Bruce Menning '66 works for the Reformed Church in America General Synod.

Martha Hallquist '66 Mollema is a teacher for the Kalamazoo (Mich.) public schools.

Barbara Momeyer '66 is a program assistant for the University of Washington in Seattle.

Ellen Berger '66 Monsma is an assistant professor of French at Calvin College.

Conrad Nienhuis '66 is the associate director of employee relations for Union Carbide Corp. in Danbury, Conn.

Bruce Oosterhouse '66 is a teacher at Kenowa Hills (Mich.) High School.

Robert Pangle '66 is a chief assistant prosecutor for Kalamazoo (Mich.) County.

Cheryl Richardson '66 Patterson is the director of volunteers for the Dept. of Children and Family Services in Springfield, Ill.

William Petz '66 is the coordinator of orientation and retention programs at the University of North Carolina—Asheville.

William Potter '66 is an area sales manager for Dexter/Hysol of Seabrook, N.H.

Nancy Bush '66 Rottschaefer is a sixth grade teacher for Maplewood Elementary School in Holland.

Sharon Wiechman '66 Seamon is a social work supervisor for Cuyahoga County Dept. of Human Services in Cleveland, Oh.

Phyllis Baker '66 Sharpe is the business manager for her husband John's medical practice in Ocala, Fla.

Judy Grabinski '66 Smit is a teacher for a pre-school program at Community Presbyterian Nursery School in Clarendon Hills, Ill.

Lance Stell '66 is a professor of philosophy and chairperson of the department at Davidson (N.C.) College.

Susan Short '66 Strong is a teacher for the Academy of the Sacred Heart in Bloomfield Hills, Mich.

Joan tenHoor '66 is a reference librarian at the University of Louisville, Ky.

Evelyn Albers '66 Timmins is the assistant to the vice president of Texas Commerce Bank in Houston.

Dorothy Troike '66 is an associate professor at SUNY College in Cortland.

John Utzinger '66 is the director of financial management for GTE Sprint of Burlingame, Calif.

Lester VanAllsburg '66 is a German teacher for the Grand Haven (Mich.) public schools.

Dirk Van Beek '66 has his own law practice in South Holland, Ill.

Leon VanDyke '66 is an associate professor of theatre at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside.

Jeanne Frissel '66 VanTil is on the board of directors of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Civic Ballet.

Clare VanWieren '66 is the president of VanWieren and Hoekstra D.D.S.

Mary Klaasen '66 VanderBeek is a second grade teacher at Park Elementary in Hudsonville, Mich.

Gerald Waanders '66 is the president of Waanders

Palynology Consulting Inc. in San Marcos, Calif.

Mary Cousineau '66 Wattington is the vice president of sales for Merchants Metal Inc. in Birmingham, Ala.

David Weddle '66 is the author of a recently published book, The Law as Gospel: Revival and Reform in the Theology of Charles G. Finney (Scarecrow Press). David is a professor of religion at Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Iowa.

Dennis Wegner '66 is a consulting clinical microbiologist for Laboratory Control Ltd., a pathology group serving seven hospitals, in Ottumwa, Iowa.

Richard Wepfer '66 is the administrator of information resource management for GTE - Midwestern Telephone in Westfield, Ind.

Janet Hine '66 Widell is a nursing instructor for Southern Union State Junior College in Valley, Ala.

Cheryl Eggert '66 Wienke is a reading specialist for Monongalia County schools of Morgantown, W.V.

Carol Howes '66 Wilbur is a teacher for Spring Lake (Mich.) public schools.

Richard Wolters '66 is an associate professor of philosophy for Doane College in Crete, Neb.

John Wormuth '66 is a professor of oceanography for Texas A&M University.

David Yntema '66 is the executive vice president of Coopervision Professional Resources in Menlo Park, Calif.

Terry Sheffield '67 had only commanded the USS Capodanno for seven days when the ship, traveling with the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea, became part of the Libyan attack on April 14.

Adrian Slikkers '67 was recognized as the leading district manager in the western region of Ross Laboratories in Columbus, Ohio during 1985. He also has added the Far East to his management responsibilities.

Wayne Van Kampen '67 was interviewed by NBC's Connie Chung of "American Almanac" as an expert on teenage satanic cults. It will be televised in June. Wayne is the Bethesda Hospital director of pastoral care and education.

Caryl Yzenbaarc '67 Hoberg has published a book entitled Kentucky Real Estate Contracts. She is a professor of law at the Salmon P. Chase School of Law.

Donald Battjes '68 has been appointed the managing director of John Wolcott Associates in Irvine, Calif.

Harold Lay '68 is a chaplain resident at The Methodist Hospital in Brooklyn, N.Y. Harold is also participating in the Clinical Pastoral Education program at the hospital.

Phillip Frens '68 has accepted a call to become pastor of First Reformed Church in Grand Haven, Mich.

Susan Bosman '69 Formsma is the president of the Holland Area Arts Council. Susan is a string music teacher for Grand Haven (Mich.) public school.

Linda Kozel '69 Hegstrand is a resident in clinical pathology at the Univ. of Wisconsin-Madison.

Virginia Fraser '69 Lay is a resident in obstetrics and gynecology at the University Hospital in Newark, N.J.
Timothy Truman '69 recently opened a private pediatric cardiology practice in Saginaw, Mich.
Lee VandeWall '69 is a regional manager in the Northeast for Koch Engineering Co. of Hingham, Mass.

70's

Patti Brown '70 is the coordinator for use of facilities at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.
William Van Faasen '70 has been named senior vice president of operations at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, headquartered in Detroit.
Barbara Ferguson '71 Adams is a seventh grade teacher for Fulton County (Ga.) schools.
Mary Katt '71 Bolt is a teacher for Spring Lake (Mich.) public schools.
Robert Bone '71 is an education sales consultant for Datago Computer Solutions in Syracuse, N.Y.
John Boonstra '71 is the executive director for the Center for Ethics and Urban Policy in Seattle, Wash.
Gerard Bosscher '71 is a dentist and orthodontist in Lansing, Mich.
Thomas Brown '71 is a data base administrator for Pannill Knitting Co. in Martinsville, Wash.
Nancy Johnson '71 Brown is a substitute teacher aide for the Holland public schools.
Kathleen Burns '71 is a reading teacher for Wheatland-Chili schools in Scottsville, N.Y.
Peggy Remtema '71 Byland is the director of Ark Christian Child Care Center in Fremont, Mich.
Patrick Carrigan '71 is the assistant general manager of Hubbard Industries in Wampsville, N.Y.
Emily Cosby '71 is an instructor of special education at Napa Valley (Calif.) College.
Keith Crossland '71 is the president of Keith Crossland Cos. in Chicago.
Esther Schuring '71 DeYoung is an administrative assistant for Air Flow Equipment Inc. in Kalamazoo, Mich.
Lee DeYoung '71 is the executive director of Words for Hope Inc. in Grand Rapids, Mich.
Jack Doorlag '71 is a pastor at First Reformed Church in Byron Center, Mich.
Deborah Denton '71 Dykstra is a teacher for Tri-County area school in Howard City, Mich.
John Endersbe '71 is a sergeant first class in the U.S. Army stationed in Augusta, Ga.
Lon Eriks '71 is the president of The Cambridge Group in Merrillville, Ind.
Linda Whiteman '71 Figueroa is an immigration inspector for the U.S. Immigration & Naturalization Service in Buffalo, N.Y.
Sarah Humphrey '71 Floyd is the coordinator of Christmas International House for the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. in Atlanta, Ga.
Jane Selfridge '71 Fochtman is an instructor for Traverse City (Mich.) Adult Education program and Grand Traverse jail program.
Nancy Flier '71 Forest is the Middle East secretary for International Fellowship of Reconciliation and editorial assistant for Reconciliation International in the Netherlands.
Linda Provo '71 Fulton is a geologist for Exxon Co. U.S.A. in Midland, Tx.
Allen Garbrecht '71 is a district court judge of Calhoun County in Battle Creek, Mich.
Robert Grahmann '71 is the area director for Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship in New Brunswick, N.J.
Mary Joling '71 Grooters is a substitute teacher for Grand Rapids (Mich.) public schools.
Paul Hilbelink '71 is a geology manager for Berloger Geotechnical Consultants in Pleasanton, Calif.
Janet Hildebrand '71 is an assistant professor of German and coordinator of preprofessional studies at Texas Wesleyan College in Ft. Worth.
Dale Merrick '71 Hillermeier is a teller for Citizens First National Bank in Ridgely Park, N.J.
Drew Hinderer '71 is a professor of philosophy at Saginaw Valley (Mich.) State College.
Jan Luben '71 Hoffman preaches in local churches as pulpit supply in Williamson, N.Y.
Fran Hooper '71 is an assistant supervisor of bus operations for the Washington D.C. Metro Transit Authority.
Robert Jamison '71 is an associate professor in anesthesiology at Vanderbilt University Medical Center.
Sandra Lynk '71 Jenkins is a full-time Mom.
Sue VanderNaald '71 Johnson is a math and language arts teacher for Wheaton-Warrenville (Ill.) school district.
Norine Everson '71 Jones is the manager of international communications for Chase Lincoln Bank of Rochester, N.Y.
Jane Witherspoon '71 Jungst is the owner of Williamsport (Ind.) Pharmacy.
Mark Kielhorn '71 is the assistant bureau director for the State of Michigan Dept. of Mental Health in Lansing.
James Koert '71 is the director of marketing and business development for Cardiovascular Devices Inc. in Irvine, Calif.

Don Kolkman '71 is a high school guidance counselor at Clio (Mich.) High School.
Brian Koop '71 is the vice president of corporate development for Prince Corporation of Holland.
Jack Koster '71 is an art teacher for Godwin Heights (Mich.) schools.
Barbara Godshalk '71 Lester is the elementary reading director for Centreville (Mich.) public schools.
Glenn Lowe '71 is the supervisor of dealer development for Haworth Inc. of Holland.
James Maatman '71 is in research and production for Industrial Training Inc. of Grand Rapids, Mich.
Kathleen Wilhelm '71 Maatman is a second grade teacher for Saranac (Mich.) community schools.
Ross Mack '71 is an engineer for Task Force Tips in Valparaiso, Ind.
Bart Merkle '71 is the dean of students at Grand Valley State Colleges in Allendale, Mich.
Virginia Mrizek '71 is a family practice physician for Whiting Clinic in Hammond, Ind.
Karl Nadolsky '71 is a teacher and coach for the West Ottawa (Mich.) public schools.
Craig Neckers '71 is a partner of Smith, Haoghey, Rice, & Roege, P.C. in Grand Rapids.
Robert Nienhuis '71 is a senior pastor at Bethel Baptist Church in Kalamazoo, Mich.
John Norden '71 is a counselor, instructor, and coach at Zeeland (Mich.) High School.
Caroline Krahe '71 Norris is the vice president of Santa Fe Abstract Ltd. in New Mexico.
William O'Connor '71 is the general manager for Caremark Home Health Care of America in Buffalo, N.Y.
Patricia Deboer '71 Pedersen is a bookkeeper for General Window Cleaning Co. in Cermak, Ill.
Mary Voorhorst '71 Pott is a reading teacher for Hamilton (Mich.) public schools.
Susan Reus '71 Rietta is a school psychologist for the Jefferson County Board of Education in Birmingham, Ala.
Vern Roelofs '71 is a lab manager for Lenox Institute for Research Inc. in Lenox, Mass.
Marcia Ryan '71 is a counselor/case manager for the North Los Angeles County Regional Center of Calif.
Nancy Schellenberg '71 is a teacher for Great Neck (N.Y.) public schools.
Karen Koeman '71 Schley is a computer-aided design instructor for Facility System Group of Houston, Tx.
Richard Scott '71 is the director of leisure services for the City of Muskegon, Mich.
Mary Scott '71 Siptak is the president of Far Horizons Travel, Inc. in Houston, Tx.
Lynda Dethmers '71 Sittser is the director of music for First Reformed Church of South Holland, Ill.
Ron Smith '71 is the associate director of financial aid for Smith College of Northampton, Mass.
Kira Burdick '71 Spellman is the manager of service marketing for Concurrent Computer Corp. of Neptune, N.J.
Thomas Stack '71 is the manager of architectual sales for Marvin Millwork Inc. of Ellenville, N.Y.
Deborah Clinton '71 Stack is the founder and director of Ark Child Care Center of Ellenville, N.Y.
Joyce VanHouzen '71 Stacy is a third grade teacher for Chippewa Hills (Mich.) public schools.
Richard Smeenge '71 is a psychiatric social worker for Pine Rest Christian Hospital in Grand Rapids.
Nancy Warner '71 Taylor is a elementary school librarian for the Sturgis (Mich.) public schools.
Pamela Parker '71 Thornburg is the personnel manager for the University of Wisconsin-Stout.
Henry Ten Clay '71 is the pastor of Ross Reformed Church in Gary, Ind.
Douglas Tepper '71 is the director of product management for Foremost Ins. Co. of Grand Rapids.
Damas Thoman '71 is the vice president of Bush Boake Allen Inc. of Montvale, N.J.
Sharon Tucker '71 is a communications officer of corporate communication for Bank of America NT&SA in San Francisco, Calif.
Janice Thompson '71 Van Auken is self-employed as a private piano teacher in Holland.
Hendrika VandeKemp '71 is an associate professor of psychology for Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.
Wayne VanderByl '71 is a partner in the Stanton & VanderByl law firm of Palmyra, N.Y. Wayne is also the president of the board of directors for Myers Community Hospital.
David VanderWal '71 is a regional director of aircraft contracts for Boeing Commercial Airplane Co. in Seattle, Wash.
Jerry VandeWerken '71 is the president of Fein & VandeWerken Co., LPA in Columbus, Ohio.
Janice Lemmick '71 VanDyke is the director of children's ministries for Central Wesleyan Church in Holland.
Rick VanHaitsma '71 is the minister of congregational care and outreach for Beechwood Reformed Church in Holland.
Gary VanKempen '71 is an associate professor of chemistry for Lansing (Mich.) Community College.

Gerald VanWieren '71 has a private medical practice in Grant, Mich.
Carol Rynbrandt '71 Wilson is the coordinator and exercise specialist of the health promotion department at Borgess Medical Center in Kalamazoo, Mich.
Douglas Braat '72 is a freelance copywriter and operator at Shibai Fabrics, a business handling traditional Japanese fabrics in Tokyo, Japan.
David Buchanan '72 has taken a new pastorate at Nassau Reformed Church near Albany, N.Y.
Jerry Sittser '72 recently published The Adventure: Putting Energy Into Your Work with God (Intervarsity Press). Jerry is currently working on his doctorate at the University of Chicago.
Gary Vrugink '72 took a Biblical study tour of Israel and Egypt in February. While in Cairo, he was caught in the middle of the Security Forces' riot.
Lou Cravotta '73 has been named cross country "Coach of the Year" by the New Jersey Herald in Sussex County, N.J.
Marianne Stokes '73 Kincaid is the deputy treasurer for Madison County, N.Y.
Robert Pawlak '73 is the clinical director of South Florida Back Care Center in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.
Carolyn Borgert '74 has been promoted to co-manager for Kmart in Chesapeake, Ohio.
Brad Clegg '74 has a general medical practice in Jenison, Mich.
Dan Dysktra '74 is stationed in Kaneoke, Hawaii with the First Marine Amphibious Brigade.
Carl Gearhart '74 has accepted a call to become the pastor of Apache (Okla.) Reformed Church.
Patricia Bogema '74 Vonk is teaching fifth grade in the Flossmor (Ill.) public schools.
Bonnie Miedema '75 Aebi is a missionary with SIM International in Switzerland.
Beth Ackerman '75 Nearpass is an English teacher at Council Rock High School in Newton, Pa.
Rich Williams '75 has been reelected president of the Cooperative Merchants Association which counsels and represents small merchants/ retail businesses on issues of revitalization and urban redevelopment.
David Young '75 is beginning a fellowship in medical oncology at Harbor-UCLA Medical Center in Torrence, Calif.
Robert Lees '76 has been promoted as the acting vice president of operations for Universal Forest Products' Northeast Division.
Betsy Emdin '76 is a librarian at the Michigan Dunes Correctional Facility in Saugatuck, Mich.
Barbara Wrigley '76 Haggett is running the conference center for AT&T's large business customers in Washington, D.C. and is pursuing a full-time master's degree in human resource development.
Beverly Kinoshita '76 Patton is a customer service manager for People Express Airlines.
Jim Stegenga '76 works for the FDIC at banks in Washington and Alaska.
Robert Coleman '77 was promoted as the acting vice president of operations for Universal Forest Products' Atlantic Division.
Elizabeth Kaufman '77 has been promoted to senior process engineer at ARCO in Texas.
Kenneth Working '77 was installed as senior pastor of Christ Community Church in Carmichael, Calif.

Mary Jo Bertsch '78 is beginning a fellowship in cardiology at The University of Illinois in July.
Brian Bradley '78 continues his pediatric residency at the Harvard Children's Hospital in Boston, Mass.
Eileen Doyle '78 Flower is the director of the Weston (Ohio) Public Library.
Glen Peterman '78 recently returned from an extended stay in Amman, Jordan as core-staff member of the University of Arizona Tell el-Hayyat Excavations and as an Endowment for Biblical Research fellow at the American Center for Oriental Research. Glen is currently the associate director of archaeological excavations in Khirbet Iskander, Jordon and is working on his doctorate at the University of Arizona.
Calvin Jellema '79 is a fellow at the International Law Institute in Frankfurt, West Germany.
Tim Lont '79 coached the Holland (Mich.) High School girls' gymnastic team to the Michigan state championship.
Peter Warnock '79 has been a senior staff member doing research for the Khirbet Iskander and Tel Safut excavations in Jordon. Peter is currently working on a master's in anthropology/ethnobotany at Texas A&M University where he is also a head resident of a men's dormitory.
Al Watson '79 is th director of law admissions for the University of Cincinnati Law School.

80's

Douglas Congdon '80 is an intern at Flint (Mich.) Osteopathic Hospital.
Lois Lema '80 has recently accepted a full-time position as a park ranger at the Statue of Liberty National Monument in New York.
Barbara Houtman '81 Francis is employed in the analytical lab at Life Savers Inc. in Holland.
Jonathan Jellema '81 is a member of a law firm in Atlanta, Ga.
Heidi Burke '82 is a geologist with Fina Oil & Chemical in Dallas, Tx.
Nancy DeWitte '82 is a member of a two-person team to embark on a year-long canoe trip across the continental United States. They are trying to increase an awareness of the plight of the American rivers and natural resources and will be leaving June 14.
Heather Molnar '82 is a painter/photographer and works as an audio-visual production assistant at KLR Productions in Albuquerque, N.M.
Mary Remyne '82 is a financial report analyst for the Marine Bank of Milwaukee, Wis.
David Rhem '82 is a law associate in the Muskegon (Mich.) offices of Landman, Latimer, Clink, & Robb.
Anne Brown '83 is a news reporter for the South Haven Tribune.
John Christian '83 is employed in the sales department of Medline Industries, selling medical supplies in Chicago, Ill.
Sarah Saddler '83 Christian works in the telemarketing and advertising department of PT Components, Stearns Division. She also maintains an art studio in Milwaukee.
Laura Alderton '83 Eding teaches first grade at the Crystal Cathedral Academy in Garden Grove, Calif.
Scott Eding '83 is working on his master's of divinity at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.
Andrea Ehmann '83 is an accountant for Ferris, Busscher, Zwiers, and Mast, P.C. in Holland.

Books vs. Movies

Continued from page 19

African people and wildlife, noted Sobania. So in the scene in which Hatton (Redford) tells Blixen (Streep) to stand still to calm an approaching lioness, the reality of that episode was highly improbable.

"Karen Blixen had lived in Africa awhile before she met Hatton," said Sobania. "She owned a gun and was engaged in big game hunting before she had the farm. This was just typical Hollywood in a love story. Here is the man showing the woman how to deal with the real world."

Just as improbable, said Sobania, was Blixen's trepidation over the Maasai warriors crossing the plain in hunting garb and make-up. While it was accurate that the Maasai people won't even have been curious about white people staring at them, continuing their march, it was nonsense to portray Blixen in a state of fear, Sobania said.

"She knew the Maasai people and got along with them. They (the white people) knew they would have never been threatened. This is just another American stereotype toward Africans."

Like "The Color Purple," "Out of Africa's" ending was somewhat altered. The burning of Blixen's coffee factory did not cause the sale of her farm as the movie implied. It is true that the factory did burn down, but it was rebuilt and operable. The sale of the farm was the result of a variety of calamities — the altitude was really too high to grow coffee, and Africa had gone through several natural disasters during that time, such as a drought and locust infestation.

And the announcement of Hatton's death did not come from Bror, Blixen's former husband, either. The news was broken to Blixen by Mrs. McMillan, the widow of the former governor, in McMillan's kitchen, not on Blixen's farm as she waited for Hatton to come back for her, said Sobania.

For "Out of Africa," whatever Hollywood wanted, Hollywood rearranged. Yet for all this rearranging and inserting, these movies were rich with the same acclaim and controversy their book-sources achieved before them. That may be the most important book-movie similarity—consistent controversy.

Tamara Greene '83 was promoted to corporate trust officer at Old Kent Bank and Trust of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Andy Gustafson '83 is working on his Ph.D. in physiology at Indiana University, studying the effects of thermo regulation.

Lisa Paaue '83 is a cost analyst for the glass division of Ford Motors Co., in the controller's office of profit analysis in Detroit.

Kathy Rivera '83 is a youth counselor at the Puerto Rican Youth Development Center and through the Rochester (N.Y.) city schools.

Jannie Lillrose '83 Sabo is the director of the resource room at Hannah Middle School in East Lansing, Mich.

Mark Sabo '83 is working on his doctorate in chemistry at Michigan State University.

Steve Stallone '83 is attending Drexel University of Philadelphia, Pa. to obtain an m.b.a.

Karen Tysse '83 is a claims adjuster for American International Adjustment Co. in Wayne, Pa.

Jeffrey Wynsma '83 is working at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange for the Chicago Research and Trading Group.

Bruce Young '83 is a process engineer at Honeywell Solid State Electronics Division in Minneapolis, Minn.

John Brender '84 will be attending graduate school at the University of Michigan in romance linguistics.

Tina deJong '84 is rehabilitation teacher/counselor for the Michigan Commission for the Blind.

Tom Elhart '84 is a national account representative with J.T. Batts of Zeeland, Mich.

Anne Enderlein '84 is teaching special education at the Button-Ginett Elementary School in Hinesville, Ga.

Ann Pangborn '84 Gustafson is working on a master's degree in information science at Indiana University.

Greg Hondorp '84 is attending medical school at Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich.

Marilyn Kuntzman '84 Hondorp is a staff nurse working on the medical/surgical floor at Bon Secours Hospital in Detroit, Mich.

Carla Johnson '84 is studying English at San Diego State University.

Tyra Van Gilder '84 is a clinical social worker at Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Linda Kay Strouf '84 was one of five finalists in the Music Teacher's National Association Competition in organ. She was also selected as the Outstanding Graduate Assistant by the University of Wyoming Graduate School Committee.

Larry Witham '84 is a computer programmer with Milon Systems in North Muskegon, Mich. He also coaches the jayvee football team at North Muskegon High.

Jon Bradford '85 is a dynamic engineer at General Dynamics—Valley Systems Division in Los Angeles, Calif.

Anne Brink '85 has an assistantship in the Hotel and Restaurant Management Graduate School at MSU.

Carlotta Ellison '85 is a coordinator in the CAD (Computer Aided Design) department of Haworth, Inc. in Holland.

Mark Hilac '85 was commissioned as an Army second lieutenant upon graduating from the Officer Candidate School in Fort Benning, Ga.

Susan Marks '85 is the assistant to the managing editor at Viking Penguin Publishing House in New York City.

Margaret Marsters '85 has accepted a position as associate accountant in cost accounting with Lear Siegler Avionic, Inc.

Elizabeth Trembley '85 has been accepted into the Ph.D. program in English at the University of Chicago.

Paul Vello '85 will be starting his second professional year at the Illinois College of Optometry in Chicago.

Cheryl Zimmer '85 is a management trainee in the Express Division for the Limited Inc. in Toledo, Ohio.

Cindy Abel '86 plans to attend San Jose State University in the fall.

Alan Adamson '86 has taken a position with NCR Corp. of Dayton, Ohio.

Renée Alarcon '86 has taken a position with C.R. Lawrence Co. of Los Angeles, Calif.

Walter Avis '86 has taken a position as a legislative assistant with the U.S. Congress.

Ted Benjamin '86 plans to attend Miami University—Ohio in gerontology this fall.

Mark Billadeau '86 won honors and a cash prize for his research at the student symposium sponsored by the Chicago Section of the American Chemical Society.

Gerald Bockstanz '86 plans to attend Michigan State University in the fall to study chemical engineering.

Susan Bosch '86 plans to attend the University of Michigan in the fall to study dance.

Brett Bouma '86 plans to attend Michigan State University in the fall to study physics.

Ross Bourdon '86 plans to attend Wayne State University School of Medicine in the fall.

Barbara Bradford '86 plans to attend William Tyndale Bible College in the fall.

Ellen Brandle '86 will work with the Peace Corps after graduation.

Daniel Broughton '86 plans to attend The University of Michigan School of Public Health in the fall.

John Buchanan '86 plans to attend the University of Wisconsin in the fall.

Karen Buiter '86 has taken a teaching position at Heritage Christian School in Hudsonville, Mich.

David Burdette '86 plans to attend The University of Michigan Medical School in the fall.

Thomas Bylsma '86 has taken a position with Ernst & Whitney public accounting firm.

Patricia Callam '86 plans to attend the Duke University Physical Therapy School.

Paul Coan '86 plans to attend Indiana University in the fall.

Stephen Cramer '86 plans to attend the U.S. Army Officer Candidate School this summer.

Andrew Cummins '86 will study robotics and integrated manufacturing at The University of Michigan in the fall.

Thomas Dammer '86 has taken a teaching internship with the Reformed Church in American in Taiwan.

Sally Davis '86 plans to attend the New School of Social Research in New York City this fall.

Francis Deck '86 plans to enter the doctoral program in physics at Notre Dame University this fall.

John Delger '86 plans to attend Western Theological Seminary in the fall.

Dale Deloy '86 has taken a position with Arthur Andersen CPAs in Detroit.

Sara DeRoo '86 plans to attend Western Michigan University in the fall.

Keith DeVries '86 has been awarded a prestigious Graduate Fellowship in Chemistry by the National Science Foundation. He will attend Harvard University in the fall.

Robin DeWitt '86 plans to attend Pennsylvania State University in the fall.

Mark DeYoung '86 will be a broadcaster for WLAV in Grand Rapids.

Bruce Dorr '86 plans to attend Wayne State University Medical School in the fall.

Dawna Dziedzic '86 plans to pursue a master's of social work at Michigan State University.

Jon Etterbeek '86 plans to attend Michigan State University to study for a master's in public relations this fall.

Nancy Evans '86 has taken a position as a staff consultant with Arthur Andersen CPAs in Detroit.

Philip Fishman '86 plans to attend Trinity Evangelical Divinity School in the fall.

Jodi Foutch '86 will be working for the Peace Corps.

James Gray '86 plans to attend Christian Broadcasting Network University in the fall.

Daniel Griswold '86 plans to attend Union Theological Seminary in Virginia this fall.

Susan Hahnenkratt '86 is studying law at St. Johns University.

Bruce Hall '86 has taken a position with Deloitte, Haskins, and Sells CPAs.

Timothy Hansen '86 plans to attend Michigan State University to study food science.

David Harrold '86 has taken a position with Federal-Moel Corporation.

Matthew Hester '86 plans to attend the University of California of Los Angeles in the fall.

Robert Hoke '86 plans to attend the Indiana University School of Public and Environmental Affairs in the fall.

Doug Holm '86 will be working on the oral history project for Dean Bruins and is writing freelance for Hope's office of college relations this summer.

Blair Hough '86 plans to attend Michigan State University Medical School in the fall.

Rebecca Hughes '86 entered the American Graduate School of International Management in May.

Willard Jewson '86 plans to attend Garrett Evangelical Theological Seminary.

Risky business

Continued from page 17

multi-million dollar deals to rebuild the company and increase shareholder equity. In December 1985, it bought half of Gulf and Western, and recently Wickes announced the acquisition of W.R. Grace, west coast home improvement centers.

Perhaps the sapient Bolks became interested in the challenge of big business while attending Hope. "I was fortunate enough to study under Dr. Ken Weller at Hope," he said. "He was an inspiration to me, the spark that helped me understand and become excited about carrying on a career in business. When someone is that influential, that spark is hard to put out."

Bolks still carries the spark at Wickes, continuing to help that revived company grow. But don't be surprised to see him helping to rescue another company on the brink of Chapter 11 in a couple years.

Debt pickles can be sweet, Mr. Abbott.

Carolyn Koester '86 plans to attend Indiana University.

Diana Krahe '86 is the director of the girls' youth guidance program for the Greater Holland Youth for Christ.

Connie Kramer '86 has taken a position as a plan processing consultant with Hewitt Associates of Lincolnshire, Ill.

Suzanne Latham '86 plans to attend Western Michigan University.

Jocelyn Lenz '86 plans to study nutrition at Michigan State University.

Beth Lefever '86 has been awarded an assistantship at Bowling Green State University to study vocal performance at the graduate level. In April, Beth won first place in the National Association of Teachers of Singing state competition.

Anne Marie Lilly '86 plans to the University of Michigan School of Library Science in the fall.

Ruth Lowry '86 plans to attend Princeton Theological Seminary in the fall.

Abby Madison '86 is the manager of Holland Wind Sports.

David Mascotti '86 plans to study biochemistry at Texas A&M University this fall.

Jeff McGookey '86 is an engineer with Lear Siegler Inc. of Grand Rapids.

Eric Meyer '86 plans to attend the University of Washington Medical School.

Stacy Minger '86 plans to attend Asbury Theological Seminary in the fall.

Jennifer Minier '86 plans to attend Western Theological Seminary in the fall.

Heather Moore '86 will temporarily be employed at the U.S. Counselate in Milan, Italy.

Mark Mulder '86 has taken a position with A&W Restaurants.

Blaine Newhouse '86 plans to attend Western Theological Seminary in the fall.

Robert Petrovich '86 plans to attend the University of Wisconsin—Madison in the fall.

Chris Pinderski '86 plans to attend Wayne State University School of Medicine in the fall.

Todd Recknagel '86 plans to attend Michigan State University Business School this fall. Todd will be working for Haworth, Inc. of Holland this summer.

Paula Recknagel '86 will be employed this summer as a college relations intern for Hope.

Michael Reisterer '86 plans to attend Marquette Law School.

Gary Reynolds '86 plans to study mechanical engineering at Georgia Institute of Technology this fall.

Doug Roehm '86 plans to attend The University of Michigan this fall, studying business.

Mark Scholten '86 has taken a position with the L'arbi Foundation of Huemoz, Switzerland.

Cynthia Stannard '86 plans to attend Western Michigan University in the fall.

Kristin Stein '86 plans to study marketing at Michigan State University in the fall.

Alan Supp '86 plans to attend Michigan State University College of Veterinary Medicine in the fall.

Marcia Taylor '86 plans to work for the Peace Corps in Botswana.

Andrew Thorpe '86 plans to study bio-medical engineering at The University of Michigan in the fall.

Shawn Tilstra '86 plans to attend Georgia Tech University in the fall.

Remember Hope When Planning Your Estate

We can help you find out more about the advantages of planning your estate.

Please send me in confidence and without obligation:

- ☐ How to Write a Will That Works—40 Answers to Questions Often Asked About Wills
- ☐ Information about establishing an Endowed Scholarship Fund
- ☐ The Campaign for Hope—Planned Gift Opportunities, a booklet which describes how to make a planned gift or bequest to Hope College

Name _____

Address _____

City, State, Zip _____ Telephone () _____

Write or call today:

John H. Greller, Director of Planned Giving, Hope College, Holland, MI 49423, (616) 392-5111, ext. 2040

Hope Summer Repertory Theatre 1986

15th Anniversary Year! A Celebration of Great Theatre

H.M.S. PINAFORE

JUNE 27 - AUGUST 30

by W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan

Nautical nonsense rules the waves in this tuneful tale of a lass who loves a sailor. A brilliant and bouyant operetta!

THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR

JULY 5 - AUGUST 29

by William Shakespeare

The fat and fickle Falstaff meets his match when he woos two mischievous Windsor wives. The Bard's merriest, madcap comedy!

SPOKESONG

JULY 18 - AUGUST 28

by Stewart Parker

An Irish bicycle shop owner falls head over wheels in love amidst the chaos and anarchy of Belfast in the 1970s. A surprising play of love and hope!

SHE LOVES ME

JULY 25 - AUGUST 27

by Sheldon Harnick, Jerry Bock and Joe Masteroff

Two people discover after months of mutual dislike that they have been corresponding as passionate pen pals. An elegant musical valentine!

THE CHILDREN'S PERFORMANCE TROUPE

AUGUST 6 - AUGUST 22

JUST SO!

by Jan Silverman

Rudyard Kipling's imagination, wit and whimsy come shining through this wonderful work based on his best-loved stories.

UNDER THE MICHIGAN PINES

by Deborah Noe

Michigan's pioneer past unfolds in stories, songs and dances. A new play about settling our Great Lakes state.

FRESH FACES OF '86

AUGUST 17.

An evening of songs and scenes featuring the HSRT Acting Interns! General seating

SCHEDULE OF PERFORMANCES

Evenings, Monday through Saturday: 8 P.M.

JUNE - JULY
SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
29	30	1 P	2 P	3 P	4	5 M
6	7 P	8 M	9 P	10 M	11 P	12 M
13	14	15 P	16 M	17 P	18 S	19 S
20	21	22 M	23 P	24 S	25 L	26 L
27	28 S	29 L	30 M	31 P
AUGUST
SUN	MON	TUES	WED	THUR	FRI	SAT
					1 L	2 S
3	4 P	5 L	6 ★/S	7 M	8 ★/L	9 P
10	11 P	12 M	13 ★/M	14 M	15 ★/M	16 S
17	18 L	19 S	20 ★/L	21 M	22 ★/S	23 M
24	25 S	26 M	27 L	28 M	29 M	30 P

P = H.M.S. Pinafore
M = The Merry Wives of Windsor
S = Spokesong
L = She Loves Me
□ No Performance
★ CPT Performances 10:30 A.M. and 1:30 P.M.
■ Opening Night
○ 2 P.M. Matinees

BUY NOW

Season coupon sales end June 27th

Remember! New 8 p.m. Curtain Time

A season coupon is not a reservation. You must reserve your seats: use this form or call the ticket office, (616) 392-1449.

Adult Coupon(s)

Best Buy Coupon(s) @ $27.00 = $

Flexible Coupon(s) @ $30.00 = $

Senior Citizen or Student Coupon(s)

Best Buy Coupon(s) @ $22.50 = $

Flexible Coupon(s) @ $25.50 = $

Enclosed is $

RESERVE BY MAIL NOW

— before the Ticket Office opens —
FOR THE BEST SEAT SELECTION

I have decided to attend on these dates. Please send the following tickets to me:

of tickets _____ Date _____
 _____ H.M.S. Pinafore _____
 _____ The Merry Wives of Windsor _____
 _____ Spokesong _____
 _____ She Loves Me _____

Mail my season coupon(s)/ticket(s) to:

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____

A BEST BUY SEASON COUPON

entitles you to FOUR admissions — one to EACH show of the season.

A FLEXIBLE SEASON COUPON

entitles you to FOUR admissions — two to the musicals and two to the plays.

Mail to:
Hope Summer Repertory Theatre
Holland, MI 49423
Phone: 616 392-1449

Christa Teachout '86 plans to attend California State Univeristy at Fresno in the fall.
Lisa Thomson '86 plans to attend Wake Forest University in the fall.
Paul VandeBunte '86 has taken a position with VandeBunte Eggs Co.
Greg VanderMeer '86 plans to attend Western Theological Seminary in the fall.
Philip VanDerWerff '86 plans to work for the Peace Corps.
Amy VanEs '86 will teach English in Taiwan next year.
Sarah VanWingen '86 plans to study labor and industrial relations at Michigan State University in the fall.
Lee Veldhoff '86 plans to attend The University of Michigan School of Engineering and Computer Science in the fall.
Peter Vergos '86 plans to attend the Chicago School of Optometry in the fall.
Jane Voortman '86 plans to study theatre at Purdue in the fall.
Tobin Warnock '86 plans to attend the University of Texas in the fall.
Scott Watson '86 is a disc jockey for WHTC in Holland.
Michael Wedlock '86 plans to attend the University of Chicago in the fall.
Beth Weisiger '86 plans to teach English in Japan for two years.
Jon Werme '86 plans to attend Indiana University in the m.b.a program this fall.
Deborah Wheeler '86 has taken a position with Steelcase Inc.
Doug Williams '86 plans to attend the University of Southern California School of Dentistry this fall.
Karen Wuertz '86 plans to attend the Loyola University School of Medicine in the fall.

marriages

Peter Bandfield and Mimi Ernest '75, Dec. 28, 1985, Cedar Rapids, Ia.
William Boedeker and Katrina Picha '80, Oct. 5, 1985, Fort Wayne, Ind.
Donald Brookhouse and Sandra Dykstra '81, Dec. 28, 1985, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Eric Chael and Marianne Walch '78, March 22, 1986, Farmington, Mich.
Robert Garcia '79 and Monica Hammerle, Nov. 30, 1985, Hart, Mich.
Ken Karsten '35 and Bouneva Joyner, May 19, 1985, Spring Hill, Fla.
David Lim and Coralie Wolf '62, April 23, 1986, Alpine, Ariz.
Mark Nagelvoort '84 and Lisa Castor '84, Oct. 1985, Bedford, N.Y.
Donald Myer and Janet DeVries '72, Jan. 4, 1986, Tenafly, N.J.
Daniel Scheuerman and Cheryl Doan '84, Feb. 15, 1986, Adrian, Mich.
Robert Schoening and Leslie Dykstra '74, Aug. 24, 1985, Fairfax, Va.
Guy VanderWagen and Sheryl Busman '80, Nov. 1, 1985, Coopersville, Mich.
Albert VanDyke '40 and Alice Moolenaar Pyle '49, Dec. 1985, Oostburg, Wis.
Paul Vello '85 and Linda DeYoung, May 25, 1985, Kankakee, Ill.
Steven Warner and Lora Hanson '82, Dec. 28, 1985, Virginia.
Jeffrey Wynsma '83 and Susan Claesson, Feb. 28, 1986, Grand Rapids, Mich.

births

Dale and Marion Thompson '82 Bulger, Emily Kate, Jan. 29, 1986, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Jere '75 and Kitty Cleason '79 Ellison, Dana Marie, Feb. 28, 1986, Holland, Mich.
Keith '76 and Rebekah Norden '76 Derrick, Nathan Paul, Jan. 31, 1986, adopted April 2, 1986, Grand Rapids, Mich.
John and Barbara Houtman '81 Francis, Ami Elizabeth, Feb. 10, 1986, Holland, Mich.
Robert '79 and Lesley Kamps '77 Geiger, Allison Hope, Jan. 27, 1986, Crown Point, Ind.
David '73 and Trisha Lemmer '74 Gosselar, Joseph Paul, April 3, 1985, Holland, Mich.
Jeff and Mary Claerbout '76 Harmeling, Daven James, Jan. 12, 1986, Eckert, Colo.
Lee and Linda Kozel '69 Hegstrand, Karen Disa, March 1, 1986, Madison, Wis.
Craig and Jan Luben '71 Hoffman, Judson Dyk, April 3, 1986, Rochesterm, N.Y.
Dan '79 and Lucy Eberhard '78 Kolean, David Charles, Jan. 26, 1986, Holland, Mich.
Marty and Sandra Brown '75 Magy, Daniel Harvey, Feb. 16, 1986, Leucadia, Calif.
Peter '77 and Meri Shima '76 Morse, Carolyn Janelle, Aug. 8, 1986, Downers Grove, Ill.
Delwyn '67 and Jean VanderLaan '69 Mulder, Jenna Lynne, Nov. 20, 1985, Glens Fall, N.Y.

Stephen and Beth Ackerman '75 Nearpass, Devon Leigh, Jan. 4, 1986, Churchville, Pa.
Roger '81 and Cheryl Tatu '80 Roelofs, Ellen Joy, March 28, 1986, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Earl and Michele White '75 Schaffer, Alison Claire, Feb. 23, 1986, Severna Park, Md.
James and Claire Jelensperger '82 Sheppard, Thomas James, Jan. 10, 1986, Clifton Springs, N.Y.
Yasunobu '82 and Beth Hufford '83 Suginaka, Alex Takashi, March 24, 1986, Rochester, Minn.
Dennis '75 and Suzanne Champagne '77 TeBeest, Sarah Elizabeth, Nov. 10, 1985, Holland, Mich.
Richard and Jane VandenBerg '76 VanMaaren, Daniel Mark, Jan. 28, 1986, Sheboygan, Wis.
Dan '76 and Jeanne VanPernis, Thomas James, March 17, 1986, Grand Rapids, Mich.
Derek and Pamela Beane '78 VanVolkenburgh, adopted Alison HyeJeong on April 10, 1986, born Nov. 21, 1985, Minneapolis, Minn.
Michael '78 and Judy Diephouse '78 Wolfiss, Eric Michael, Feb. 27, 1986, Grand Haven, Mich.

advanced degrees

Jon Bradford '85, B.S., electrical engineering, Michigan State University, June 1985.
Scott Broekstra '83, master's of geology, Indiana University, June 1985.
Douglas Congdon '80, M.D., The University of Health Sciences, Kansas City, Mo., May 1986.
Judith Eastman '61 Faber, M.R.E., Western Theological Seminary, May 1985.
Linda Kozel '69 Hegstrand, M.D., University of Wisconsin- Madison, May 1986.
Virginia Fraser '69 Lay, M.D., New Jersey Medical School-Newark, May 1985.
Ellen Borger '66 Monsma, Ph.D., French, Rutgers University, 1986.
Sally Gilman '79 Richardson, master's of special education, Michigan State University, Aug. 1985.
Todd Richardson, C.P.A., fall 1985.
Zahra Tavakoh '82, master's in applied math, Western Michigan University, Dec. 1985.

Tyra Van Gilder '84, master's of social work, University of Michigan, Dec. 1985.
Gene Wabeke '63, master's of music, vocal performance, University of Texas-San Antonio, July 1985.

deaths

Howard Dalman '32 died May 1 in Grand Rapids, Mich. after a lingering illness.
He received his advanced degree in physics from the University of Michigan in 1933.
Mr. Dalman spent his lifetime as an educator, serving as a coach and in school administration. He was a former principal of Greenville (Mich.) High School and Forest Hills High School in East Grand Rapids. He was also a past president of the Association of Secondary Schools Principals Association.
Mr. Dalman is survived by his wife, Evelyn, two sons, and three grandchildren.
The Rev. Everett DeWitt '26 died April 21, 1986 in Grand Rapids, Mich.
Also a graduate of Western Theological Seminary, he served churches in Jamestown, Mich., Chicago, Detroit, and Kalamazoo. Mr. DeWitt retired in 1965.
He is survived by one son and daughter, seven grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren.
Winifred Hager '32 Holkeboer died Feb. 18, 1986 in Grand Rapids, Mich.
Mrs. Holkeboer attended Hope before graduating from Wheaton College. She received her master's degree from the University of Michigan in 1959 and did further study at Columbia University and Michigan State University.
In 1957, she joined the Calvin College staff as an instructor of English, and in 1961 she became associate professor of English. At the time of her death, she held professor-emeritus status at Calvin. Mrs. Holkeboer retired in 1976.
She is survived by five children, 12 grandchildren, and two great grandchildren.
Ray Japinga '28 died Feb. 17 in Grand Rapids, Mich.
He was one of 12 to receive a master's degree from Hope. In 1936, he became an investment broker and was eventually a partner with Peninsular Securities, a brokerage house in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Japinga is survived by his wife, Iris, a daughter, two grandchildren, and three sisters.
Russell Japinga '29 died May 4 in Ann Arbor, Mich. after a short illness.
Mr. Japinga worked for Michigan Bell Telephone for 38 years, retiring in 1968. He served in the U.S. Air Force for three years during WWII.
He is survived by his wife, Mabel and two siblings.
Norman Siderius '50 died Feb. 25, 1986 after an extended illness in San Diego, Calif.
He received his medical degree from the Boston University School of Medicine in 1956 and did his internship and residency in general and thoracic surgery at the University of Chicago Clinic from 1957-63. Mr. Siderius also served in the U.S. Air Force before joining Surgical and Orthopedic Associates in Waterloo, Iowa. He was on the staff at Allen Memorial Hospital there.
Mr. Siderius practiced in Waterloo from 1965 to 1972 when he moved to San Diego where he was associated with Thoracic Surgery Associates. He retired a year ago.
Surviving are his wife Margaret '50; two daughters, Janet Siderius '73 Jeltima and Judith Siderius; two sons, Thomas '76 and James; nine grandchildren; and a brother and two sisters.
Beatrice Visser '34 ten Hoor died April 13, 1986 after an extended illness in Holland, Mich.
She was valedictorian of her Hope class. Mrs. ten Hoor taught language in Ellsworth, Mich. and Grant, Mich. high schools, E.E. Fell Junior High in Holland, Castle Heights Military Academy in Lebanon, Tenn., Zeeland High, and Holland Christian High. A laubach tutor-trainer, she was active in teaching English to Asian refugees.
Surviving are her husband Dr. Henry ten Hoor, Hope College professor-emeritus of English; three daughters, Joan ten Hoor '66, Lois Sterenburg, and Ellen Perec; and five grandchildren.
Evelyn Steketee '30 Upjohn died Feb. 17, 1986 in LasCruces, N.M.
Mrs. Upjohn earned a M.A. from the University of Illinois in 1931.

PLEASE FILL IN THE BLANKS:

Does the alumni office have your current name and address? Has there been a recent change in your marital status? Would you prefer Hope used a different form of your name (Jane Van Doe vs. Mrs. John Van Doe, for instance)?

We want to keep in touch. Use this form to inform and update us. Note the number of spaces per line available. We look forward to hearing from you.

Name

Street

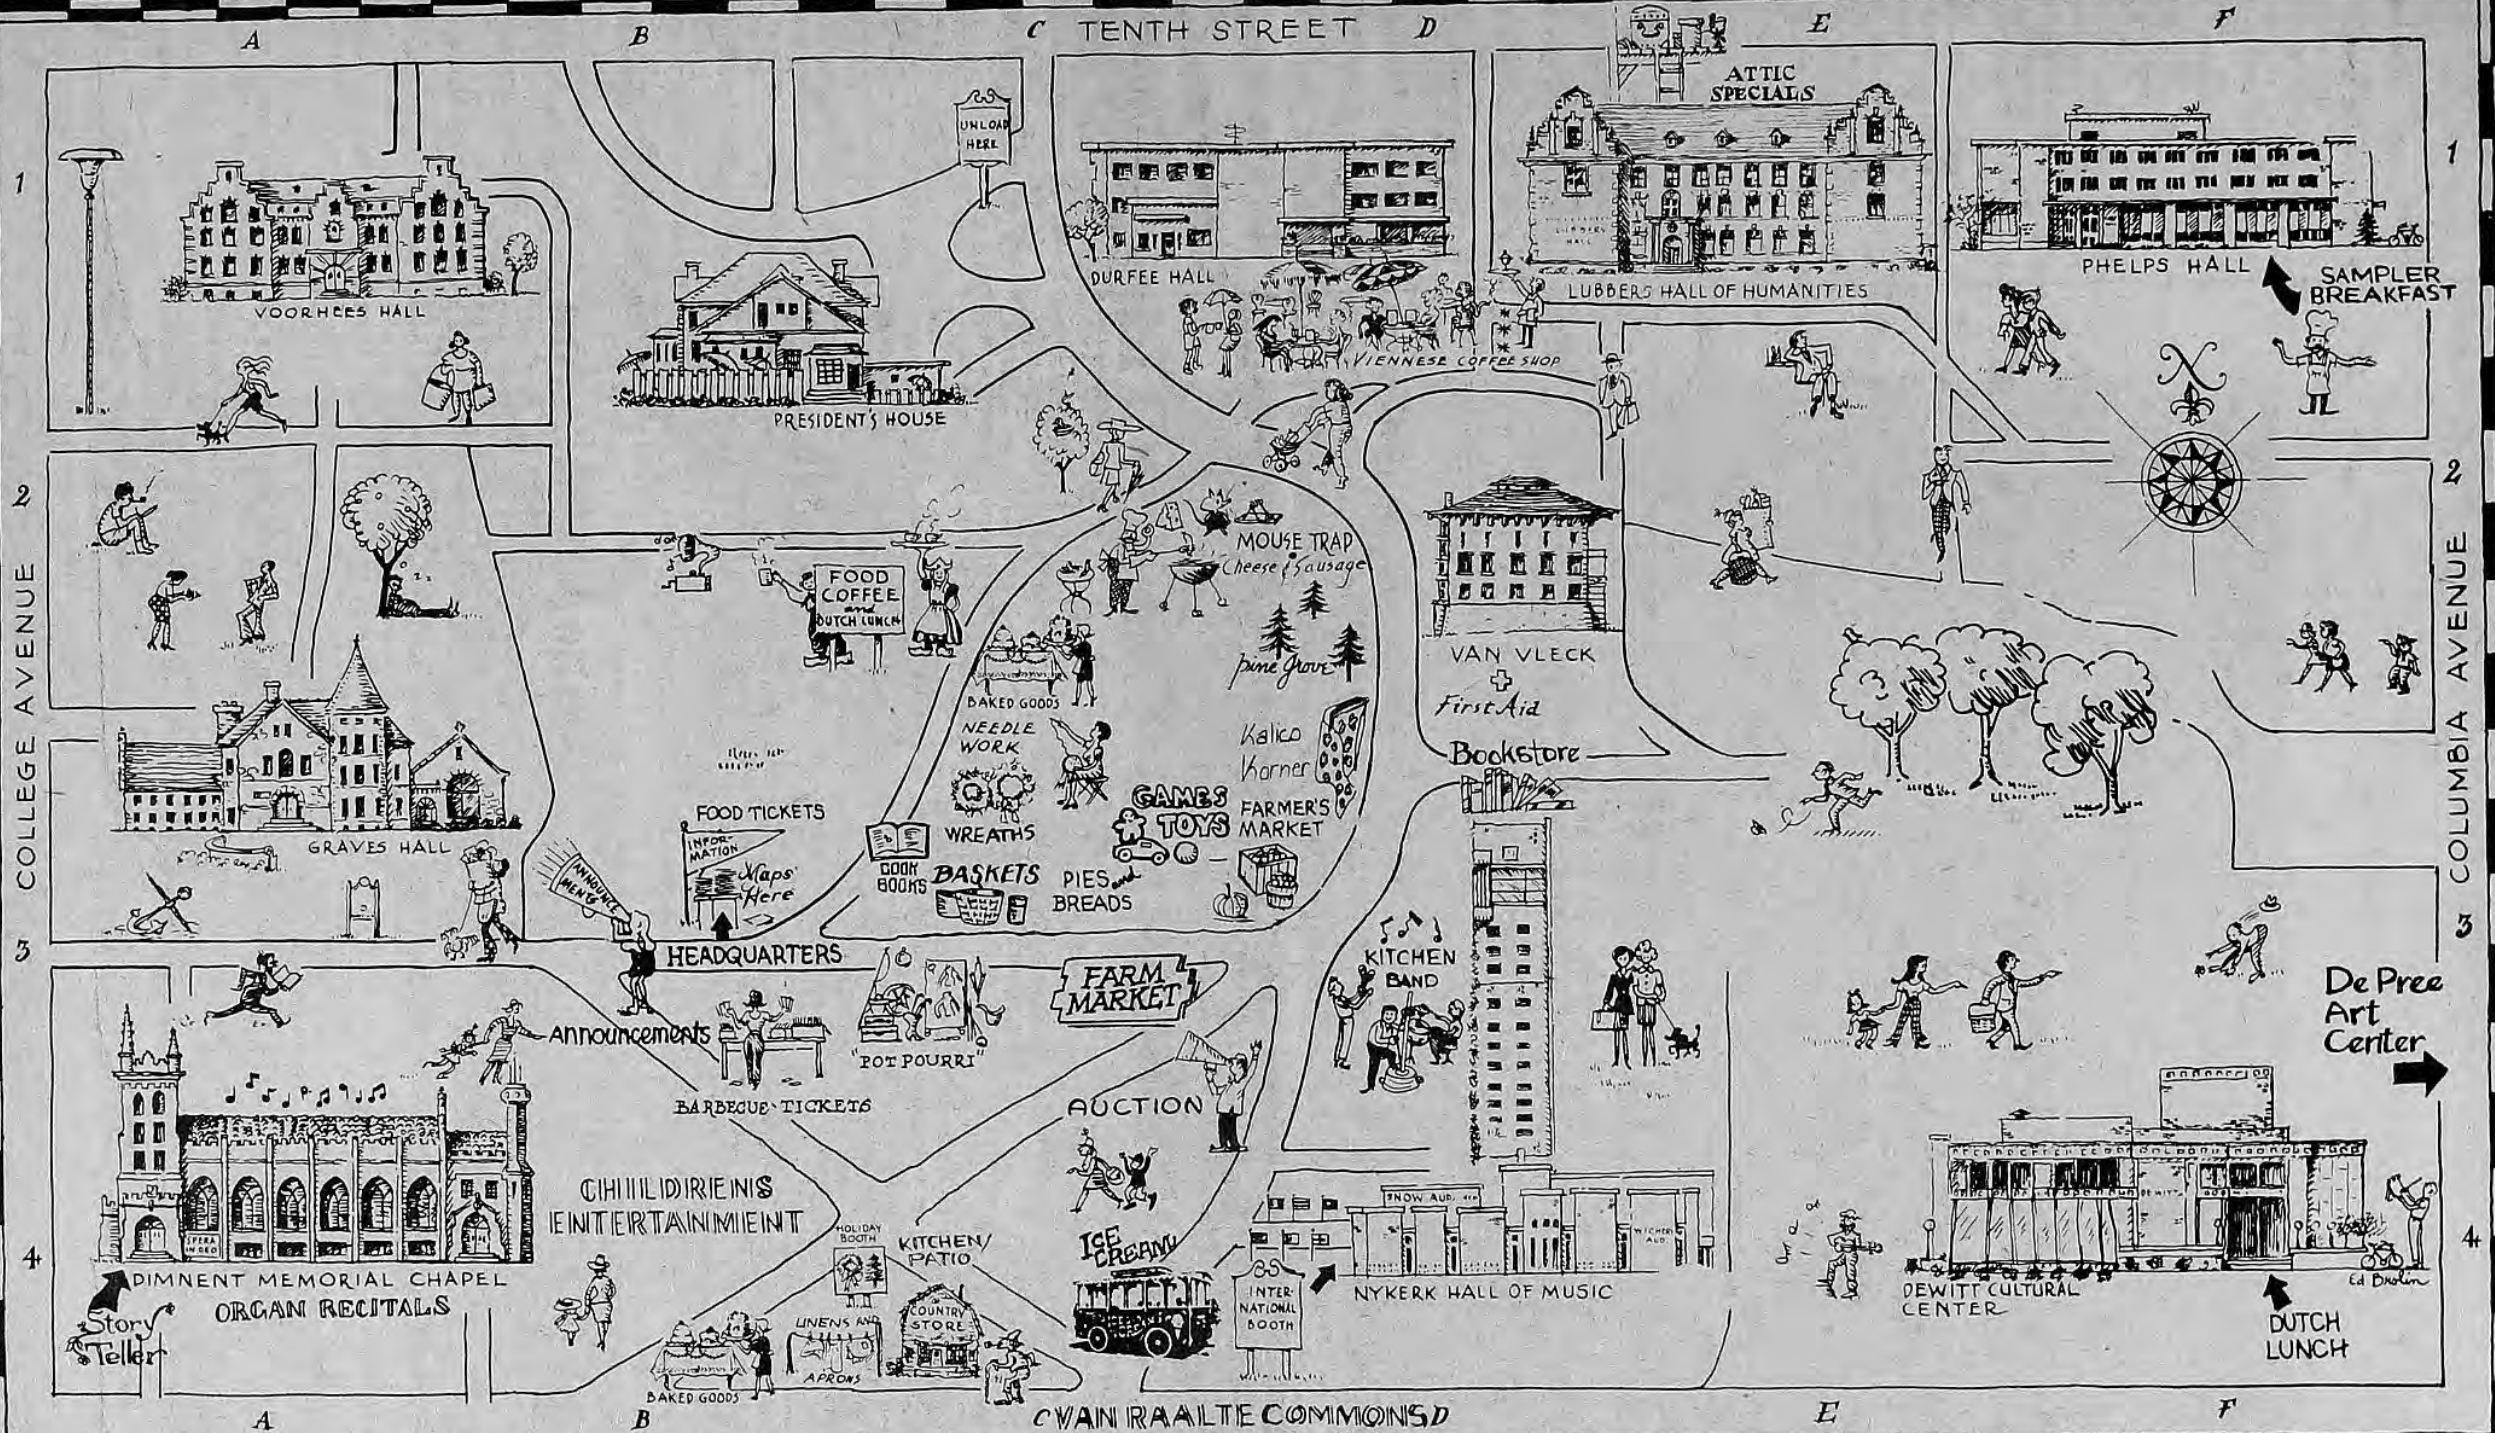

City State Zip Class of

NOTES:

Send to College Relations, Hope College, Holland, Mich. 49423

Hope College Village Square

FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1986

Come join the Hope College community Friday, June 27 for a fun-filled day in a country fair atmosphere featuring handmade goods, delicious foods, attic specials, country crafts, children's entertainment, and a silent auction.